Bradley Sig Eps get ready to face the challenge of Rush

Wisconsin Meets the Challenge

The members at Madison feel obligated to teach the pledges the ways a good fraternity experience and example inspire a richer, more meaningful life

By WARREN LANG

Wisconsin president Warren Lang and Bill Wulf and their chapter's Excelsior Award.

The Challenge for Change . . . sound familiar? For those undergraduate members not fortunate enough to attend this year's academy at Bloomington, Ind. this was the theme, the focal point of our discussions. The delegates from the Wisconsin chapter brought this message back to Madison, where I feel we took a large step forward in the implementation of this theme into the actual workings of our chapter.

Early in the semester a five-man committee was set up to review, evaluate, and make recommendations concerning the pledge program as found at Wisconsin Beta. The idea behind such a committee was to reorganize the pledge program so that it would more aptly fit today's college man. As brought up at Academy, fraternities must make a stronger appeal to college men by answering the numerous critics of the Greek system with a strong, positive program, eliminating all of the trivialities and nonsense which seem an integral part of many a fraternity's pledge program.

Today's collegian is far more mature than his predecessor of twenty years ago. He is more aware of the world around and the difficulties and complexities of life outside the college walls.

Only by giving him a true, straightforward glimpse into those truths we as Sig Eps have found and live by can we ever hope to produce from a pledge a brother who looks at his fraternity in the light which it lives . . . an organization held together by beliefs which give men a simple format to a richer, more meaningful life.

Due to obvious limitations it is impossible for me to go into details of the program as now employed by Wisconsin Beta, but I can say it is not a radical departure, rather simply a more concise and concrete program stressing the role of today's fraternities in the life of the college man. I can only ask that each chapter take a careful look at its pledge program and see if it fits the man of today and is oriented towards making that man a good brother in the halls of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Wisconsin officers discuss challenges facing their chapter and plans for response.

Readers are urged to communicate. Sig Ep viewpoints from the "grass roots" of the Fraternity are valuable and interesting and not otherwise obtained and thus form a vital part of the Journal.

Thanksgiving

As the day approaches, I hope the chapters will invite a minister or lay speaker to give a Thanksgiving message to the entire membership. Let us maintain a spirit of high morality and friendship among the members, keeping in mind that we are a Christian fraternity.—WILLIAM C. SMOLENSKE, National Chaplain, Denver, Colo.

Testimonial

To many of us undergraduate brothers who attended the Sig Ep Academy in August, the term "National" which we previously used to describe some distant group in Richmond was given its true perspective—that being the finest of all national fraternal organizations. I speak not only of the high quality of the chapters and the many firsts attained by Sigma Phi Epsilon as a national fraternity, but also of the indisputable quality of the men who work for SPE.

In the middle of September, this last opinion was given re-enforcement at Ohio University. One weekend, brothers from the Ohio State, Cincinnati, Miami (O.), and Marshall chapters journeyed to OU to help establish a nucleus for a colony. National Headquarters was represented by Dick Shimpfky, Rick Myers, John Hartman, and George Boothe. We had no local fraternity to colonize so we had to rush upperclassmen on Sigma Phi Epsilon as a national fraternity. Since Marshall, as most Sig Ep chapters, rushes primarily on the men in the chapter, this was a new experience for us—a very rewarding experience. For many hours, these national SPE officials rushed as hard, if not harder, than the rest of us. Late that Sunday, we selected a fine 20-man nucleus for a Sig Ep colony and a possible future chapter.

For Dan Baisden, Bill York, and the brothers from the other chapters, I would like to commend these hard working men from National Head-quarters and comment that as long as SPE has men of their caliber, the Fraternity cannot help but reach a high pinnacle of success. I only hope that other Sig Eps may have the opportunity to meet and to work with our national representatives as the 13 of us did.—Charles M. Kincaid, Secretary, West Virginia Gamma Chapter, Marshall University, Huntington, W.Va.

Conclave at Cleveland

At the 1966 National Leadership Academy, it was announced that the 1967 Conclave will be held in the beautiful city of Cleveland. Cleveland State's president, Jim Barta, was given the privilege of addressing the Academy delegates and personally making the official announcement. We at Cleveland State are ecstatic over the choice of the location.

Cleveland, one of the cultural centers of the world, possesses a world-renowned symphony orchestra and nationally famous art and health museums. It also provides close access to recreational areas for the fun-loving, such as Cedar Point Amusement Park, the Geneva-on-the-Lake summer resort, and numerous beaches. The Municipal Stadium, home of the Cleveland Indians and Cleveland Browns, is located in the heart of the city.

Cleveland State University will incorporate the seven acres of Fenn College in downtown Cleveland and be expanded into a campus complex of 65 acres to serve 35,000 to 40,000 students. The campus will consist of an entirely new "floor" or "ground" of concrete that will rise above and by-pass all streets in this section of the city.

Cleveland has something to offer everyone, from the intellectual, to the fun-loving, to the super sports fan. Cleveland State Sig Eps hope to make the 1967 Conclave an enjoyable one, and once again, extend a warm invitation to all chapters. I hope to see you there.—Lou Cardinale, Secretary, Cleveland State Chapter, 3214 Prospect, Cleveland, Ohio

Commander of Wasp

Just a quick note to call your attention to the fact that one of our most illustrious alumni might be worthy of an article in our magazine.

The Commander of the navy aircraft carrier Wasp is an Oregon State Sig Ep from about the year 1941 or 1942. He is Captain Gordon Hartley and will probably be on television when the Gemini Ten capsule comes down.

I suggest that perhaps some research be done with the idea of highlighting his naval career.—ROBERT E. DOWNIE, Oregon State, '43, Vice President-Treasurer, Benjamin Franklin Federal Savings and Loan Association, Portland, Ore.

"Defunct" or "Former"?

Ordinarily I have a pretty thick skin but the use of the word "defunct" in connection with the Norwich Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon as mentioned on Page 77 of the September issue of the JOURNAL irritates me.

To me the word "defunct" has the connotation of dead or deceased and while it is true that that is what happened to the Chapter, believe me it was not a fault of the Chapter or any of its brothers. For many years the Sig Ep Chapter at Norwich was one of the best in the United States. We won the majority of both the academic and athletic awards. As you are probably aware, it was the decision of the President of Norwich University, supported by the Board of Trustees to abolish all fraternities at Norwich University. This was not the fault of any of the many brothers of the Chapter. This is why I feel that to use the word "defunct" in connection with the passing of the Chapter carries a bad sense of meaning. I would suggest the use of the word "former."-ROBERT J. MARONI, Norwich, '39, 583 Highland Avenue, Upper Montclair, N.J.

Rushing Aid

The September JOURNAL was excellent and has helped us here at Kearney State tremendously in the rush program.—JERRY NORRIS, Secretary, Kearney State Chapter, Kearney, Neb.

Harry Flood Byrd: A Great American

ARRY FLOOD BYRD, who died in his home at Berryville, Va., on October 20, became a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon at the 25th anniversary conclave of the Fraternity at Richmond in 1926. His death was expected since he was suffering from a malignant brain tumor and had been in a coma since July 7.

Harry Byrd was born at Martinsburg, W.Va., on June 10, 1887. At age 15, he became a high school dropout to salvage his father's nearly bankrupt weekly newspaper. Hard work was Harry Byrd's choice. He financed for two brothers the college education he denied for himself.

He was State Senator at 28, Governor at 38, Virginia's favorite-son candidate for President at 45, and United States Senator at 46. He remained in the Senate until his retirement in 1965.

He won fame and fortune on the basis of the most exemplary principles of manhood. He became a great statesman by virtue of superior ability and character.

The Example of Our Big Brother

No Sig Ep chapter can fulfill its obligation unless it follows the basic principle that guided twelve men at Richmond College in 1901

By THOMAS VADEN McCAUL

FOUNDER

T is generally known that twelve young men of congenial spirit and of the same family background and religious faith founded Sigma Phi Epsilon at Richmond College, Virginia, November 1, 1901, as a social brotherhood whose members would endeavor to practice the moral teachings of Christianity. They were humble young men who tried to abide by the moral principles of the Bible. They hoped to project chapters of their Fraternity upon the campuses of other colleges and universities composed of members like themselves, and whose chapter houses would be conducted like Christian homes.

The Founders believed in the brotherhood of man, but they believed first in their own close association with its advantage of intimate family life. They believed in the Bible as the divinely revealed truth or Word of God, the Almighty Creator and Preserver of the universe.

Brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon should depend upon it today. Lord Bacon once held a copy of the Bible before an audience and declared: "Here God speaks!" In our age of confusion, belief in the Bible and in the teachings of our Lord are still the answer.

It has been noted by some historians that an event of tremendous meaning and importance has occurred about every 2,000 years of known history. We are within 34 years of a 2,000 year period. We may well ask if the confusion and uncertainty and the "falling away" of today indicated by the expression: "God is dead," suggest that we are living in the time described by Jesus in Matthew 24 and Luke 21 and II Peter 3:12. No matter. Our Lord is the answer to our day of confusion and Godless communism.

It is true that the finite mind of man cannot comprehend the infinite God; yet "God was in the world in Christ having become flesh, reconciling the world unto Himself." Jesus said: "No man has seen God at any time; but he that has seen me has seen the Father." A vision of Jesus is possible with the eye of faith.

Our Lord is the answer for our poor, miserable, confused, perplexed, and sinful world. A vision of Him will give us a new vision and conception of the physical world in which we live; of God, the Father; of ourselves; and of other people.

The Author of our creation is manifest in the wonder and beauty of the physical world about us. Many years ago, several companions and I stood on the brink of Niagara Falls. When I saw the vast volume of water plunging over a precipice of 180 feet only to rise again as mist and spray that sparkled like diamonds in the sun, I trembled with emotion as I said to my companions: "Who can deny that God is and that He made this world wonderful and beautiful for His glory and for the joy of man?"

A person who is a Christian, a person who has seen Jesus with the eye of faith, sees God in everything: in every bud and blossom and leaf and tree; in every rock and hill and vale and mountain; in every spring and rivulet and river. They hear His tread in every earthquake and in every angry ocean. For such people. He dwells in the storm cloud; every zephyr that fans their cheek is but the touch of His wing; the lightning becomes His messenger and the thunder His voice, and the wheeling orbs that course their crystal paths of space proclaim through the dread hall of eternity the glory, honor, dominion, and power of the loving, all-knowing, Eternal God!

When Jesus came he taught men who God is and what He is like. Jesus said, "God is spirit." But He also taught that God is a Person, and not only the great Creator and Preserver of the universe; but our Heavenly Father.

When you understand Jesus, then you have a new vision and conception of yourself. In the next place, a vision of Jesus will give us a new vision and conception of other people. And we need that. There is so much unhappiness, grief, sorrow, pain, suffering, suspicion, selfishness, greed and hate in the world! But communion with our Lord will change all of these into joy, comfort, confidence, charity, generosity, and LOVE. Yes love and peace. Jesus states in Matthew: "And I have found that people need to be loved and want to be loved; and that love will find a way; for love never fails."

A vision of our Lord makes it possible for us to love our fellow men. May God give us such a vision that we, too, may love people into the Kingdom of God!

In conclusion, please consider the testimony of four famous scientists: Darwin, Spencer, Romanes, and Haeckel. Darwin became an humble Christian and believer in the Bible. One day during an illness he requested a few of his neighbors to have a prayer service in his garden under his window in order to enable him to join in singing the hymns. When asked what subject they should use for discussion, he replied: "Christ Jesus and his Salvation. Is that not the greatest theme?" Herbert Spencer said: "I have passed my life in beating the air." George O. Romanes was one of the strongest advocates and expounders of the materialistic evolution set forth in Prof. Haeckel's book: Riddle of the Universe; but he embraced Christianity and died in the faith that God is the Creator of all things and that Christ is the Savior of mankind.

A Luncheon in the Nation's Capitol

Sig Eps meet in The Speaker's Dining Room to enjoy traditional fellowship as they pay tribute to six retiring Congressional leaders overflowing on September 13 at an unusual luncheon.

Forty-six brothers and the junior Senator from Virginia, Harry Flood Byrd, Jr., assembled at this testimonial luncheon tendered by the Congressional Delegation of Sigma Phi Epsilon jointly with the D. C. Alpha Alumni Chapter to honor several members who are retiring or who have already retired from Congress. Representative Basil L. Whitener of North Carolina, alumnus of the Duke chapter, presided as host.

Of the six Congressmen, four have already retired. Senator Harry Flood Byrd, immediate past senior Senator from Virginia, retired during the 89th Congress, first session. Alexander Wiley, immediate past senior Senator from Wisconsin, retired at the close of the 88th Congress. J. Vaughan Gary, immediate past Representative from Virginia's 3rd Congressional District, and Walt Horan, immediate past representative from the State of Washington's 5th Congressional District, also retired at the close of the 88th Congress.

Two Congressmen look forward to their retirement from the 89th Congress: Donald R. (Billy) Matthews, Florida Alpha, a member of Congress from Florida's 8th Congressional District, and Walter E. Rogers, Texas Alpha, a member of Congress from the 18th Congressional District of Texas.

The luncheon began with an invocation by the Rev. Albert P. Shirkey, Virginia Zeta, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church. Tribute to the members retiring from the 89th Congress was made by Representative William Munford Tuck, Virginia Delta and Epsilon. Roger Gilbertson, Georgia Alpha, president of the D. C. Alpha Alumni Chapter, presented each with a framed certificate of honorary membership in the chapter.

Congressman Tuck praised Senator Byrd and reviewed the remarkable career of the great Virginian with whom he had been associated, personally and politically, for 50 years. Both men had served in Virginia's General Assembly, both were Governors of the State, and both were members of the U.S. Congress at the same time. Said Tuck:

"He is undoubtedly one of the greatest Americans of this generation and has made a valuable imprint upon the times. He is generally regarded as easily the outstanding Virginian of this century and I certainly so regard him. Senator Byrd is a patriot who has always espoused sound principles of government and has fearlessly, courageously, and steadfastly adhered to the same. His retirement from the Senate is a source of genuine regret, not only to his personal friends, but to all who appreciate good government and the example which he has set."

The junior Senator could not contain the tears as J. Bernard Bradshaw presented him with his father's meritorious award given him by the D. C. Alumni Chapter for distinguished service in the field of government as a Senator in the Congress of the United States. In accepting the honor bestowed upon his father, he spoke of the high esteem in which the elder Byrd held his honorary membership in Sigma Phi Epsilon. He said his father particularly treasured the friendship of such prominent Sig Ep alumni as William Munford Tuck, Edward Wren Hudgins, J. Vaughan Gary, and Charles Ozlin. Three of the brothers present had an extra reason to be moved, for they had attended Senator Byrd's initiation in 1926: J. E. Zollinger, L. J. Harmonson, and J. Bernard Bradshaw.

* THE BYRD CREDO *

SENATOR HARRY F. BYRD believed in the same principles as Thomas Jefferson. He believed steadfastly in the Constitution. He believed in the traditions which have ennobled mankind. He worked for progress. If, on occasion, he seemed reluctant to move with the times, as was said of him, it was because he believed by the measure of eternal truth that the times should not be moved.

Of the fraternity he said: "I think college fraternities represent an ideal untiringly pursued with each new generation. Simply stated, the ideal is moral order founded on respect for self and others and on reverence for duty. This places high value on personal worth and dignity. These are fundamental to constructive success and leadership."

Tributes to Senator Wiley and Congressmen Gary and Horan were made by Representative William Pat Jennings. Framed certificates granting honorary life membership in the D. C. Alpha Alumni Chapter were presented by J. Bernard Bradshaw, president emeritus of the chapter.

Senator Alexander Wiley's response for members of the 88th Congress contained a moving message. Among the three things he believed in when he came to Washington in 1939 as a Senator, he said were: (1) to learn to utilize humor, (2) to learn the meaning and utilization of prayer, and (3) to develop a selfless devotion to a great cause. He challenged those in his audience:

"Those of you and myself who have ceased serving in the Congress, must not cease serving the youth today. This age is more challenging than the one that I have mentioned, and it is more important that the youth fortify themselves with what we have witnessed here today—humor—and as Lincoln and others found that humor and prayer were great bulwarks.

"Today there are those who claim that God is dead. Yes, the old concept of God as a man Jehovah—pictures of Him we saw when we were children of an aged man with a beard—yes, that is gone, but the great Teacher said that God is Spirit and Love. You remember that Jesus went apart and communed with the omnipresent Spirit, from Whom He got guidance and strength. That was His method of prayer, and after He had sometimes spent the night He went forth and performed His teaching and preaching and healing.

"I believe that the great Cause facing the world today is the preservation of what we knew as the American way—freedom to believe, freedom to preserve the nation, and the freedom to reach out for more light. That's the job for all of us, particularly those of us who have ceased to be members of Congress.

"Throughout the world there is a hungering cry for freedom and liberty, but we must not confuse liberty and freedom with licence. It is a law-breaker. It flaunts discipline and restraint. We all need discipline and especially the youth must get the significance thereof.

"Obedience to our country's laws, the moral law, and the inner desire to work and not get something for nothing are all-important. A satisfactory life builds the inner man. The loafer and the chiseler stilts him. The youth in this age must not be ignorant of their responsibilities to preserve the freedoms that constitute the real America."

Responses were made by Representatives Donald R. (Billy) Matthews, Florida Alpha, and Walter E. Rogers, Texas Alpha.

The tapestry of fraternity is one of great value for the men—busy and supremely important as they may be, who take the time to be moved by it. Congressman Rogers was pledged to Sigma Phi Epsilon at the University of Texas by Fred Korth who was to become Secretary of the Navy. Then on May 21, 1959, Walter Rogers was initiated into Sigma Phi Epsilon in the Speaker's Dining Room in the Capitol Building. Presiding at his initiation was Fred Korth.

Representatives Gary and Horan were unable to be present—the former because of a case before the Virginia State Corporation Commission and the latter because of ill health and the great distance of the luncheon from his home. Paul Saunier, Virginia Alpha, former administrative assistant for Congressman Gary and now assistant to the president of the University of Virginia, together with the Congressman's brother, Jack Gary, Virginia Alpha, accepted the award.

J. E. Zollinger spoke on his favorite subject—the William L. Phillips Foundation. Executive Director Donald M. Johnson, up from Richmond, was privileged to deliver a State of the Fraternity message in one of the "halls" of Congress that was witnessing its third D. C. Alpha Alumni Chapter affair.

At the close of the luncheon, the dome of the Capitol was rocked as the brothers present joined their voices in the lusty singing of Sigma Phi Epsilon's revered Anthem.

The Challenge of Change

Change will go the right way if we put our beliefs to work

By

ELDON R. NONNAMAKER

ASSOCIATE DEAN OF STUDENTS MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

The old order changeth, yielding place to new, And God fulfills Himself in many ways, Lest one good custom should corrupt the world.

o wrote Tennyson in The Passing of Arthur. The inevitability of change is all around us. The ancient philosopher recognized this when he observed that it was impossible to put one's finger into the same stream twice. His stream however flowed more slowly—today that stream has become a torrent that sometimes threatens to engulf us all

I do not need to cite statistics to make you aware of this. We are all familiar with the explosive changes which surround us every day. The "technological explosion," the population explosion," the "student revolt," the "civil rights struggle," and the "race to the moon" are only a few of the common phrases that regularly impinge on our consciousness and heighten our awareness of change.

Unless we are careful, however, all too often we are prone to equate change with positive progress. Change itself has no inherent value—it is only man who assigns it one. It is well to remember that change, or progress for that matter, may be both good and bad, both positive and negative. To evaluate, appreciate, or understand change, in and of itself becomes meaningless, and we are caught up in a process we cannot control and cannot comprehend. We are become then as primitive man—at the mercy of the elements and alone in an unfriendly world that seemingly lacks purpose, pity, or direction.

The Challenge of Change

I suspect the Leadership committee, in selecting the theme, "The Challenge of Change," had some of the same thoughts in mind that I have just expressed. Perhaps they were also thinking of the commonly stated opinion of some college presidents and college deans that what's really wrong with fraternities is their inability to adapt to change. Both you and I have heard this for a good many years. The demise of the fraternity system on the college campus has been predicted for as long as I have been in the business and I must admit that I too, on occasion, have given our fraternity system "what for" because I believe that it was failing to take adequate cognizance of the events occurring in higher education.

But let's return to the theme, "The Challenge of Change." What were we talking about anyway? It seems to me that whether we may like it or not, change is going to take place—either with us or without us. Some people decide on the latter course and retreat from the world. For example, I read recently of a man who sought to escape from it all and staked out a claim on a mountain in Arizona. When the National Park Service told him he must move he sat on a piece of dynamite, lit the fuse, and passed on to glory. That is one way to solve the problem of adapting to the world. In some ways it may be the easiest.

The other alternative is to face the situation and rather than retreat or just observe the whole process, be a part of it. This takes courage—courage of conviction. And it requires the values I was talking about earlier, for convictions rest ultimately on values.

It has wisely been said, "It takes nothing more for evil to triumph, than for good men to do nothing." Herein, then, lies the "Challenge of Change." We must be willing to face it with the courage of our convictions, and with values against which we can test its worth. We must enter the fray—for to do less would be false to those beliefs we have commonly held.

Meeting the Challenge

Now then, how do we put these values and convictions to work? And, what changes are we talking about anyway? Let me list only a few, and I'll limit them specifically to higher education, although I'm sure you will admit, as will I, they have ramifications for the larger society.

1. Increasing Numbers of Students. Does this make us complacent? Easier to get members? Do we reject this as letting too many get an education? Do we worry about too many residence halls and the competition they give us? What do our values say here?

Don't we believe we have something to give, something precious, something worth while? Should we be selfish, as we often are, and then blame others for the lack of our success? If fraternity has real meaning we should welcome increased numbers, and we should do all we can to share the fraternity experience with them. Isn't this in keeping with our values?

2. Increasing Academic Pressure. All of us know that college is tougher than it used to be. Do we carp about it, complaining that it takes too much time away from social life? What is college for anyway? Its purpose is to help the individual make the best out of his God-given talents for himself and society. What do our values say about his? Shouldn't this be a major purpose of the fraternity? Do we really use this value often enough? Or again are we concerned with house status, prestige, fun, based on different values?

3. Increased Impersonalization of Instruction. This is one I'm really worried about. In many respects it appears inevitable—tied to larger universities, more students, absentee faculty, etc. Television teaching. TV to brain to score card, to machine, to IBM grade. Students all over the country are reacting to this. What can fraternity do to change the trend? Not much, I guess. What can fraternity do to ameliorate the problem? Much, I think. Never before in history has fraternity had such opportunity-fraternity is caring about one another. Personalizing a place that is impersonal. Isn't this one of our highest values? Brotherhood. Do we use this often enough when pointing out our worth? I think not. It is not a mark of weakness to care for others —it is a point of strength.

4. Increasing Criticism of Higher Education. All campuses have critics who are extremely vocal about what's wrong with colleges. Extremely sensitive about rights. Many believe ends justify means—disobey law with impunity. Willing to tear down far more readily than to build.

What have fraternities to say about this? Do we believe in the democratic process? Do we believe in rule by law? Can we support our nation, or our college, and when we believe it wrong not profane it, but work constructively for change, within a democratic process? I think we can.

5. Increased Escape from Reality. How many drugs?—how much alcohol?—for fun?—for escape from reality? This is the concern of many colleges today. What do our values say about this?

I have listed only five points—I could multiply these by ten. I think it time to lay our values on the line—to use them to evaluate change. Not to apologize for them, if we have them, but to admit it. If we belong to a fraternity, be proud of it. It bothers me with some of these organizations, people want to belong but don't want it known they belong.

This is truly a time of change. It is important to meet it—to know where we stand and what we believe in. It is important that we put our beliefs to work. If we do we can insure that change will go in the right direction. Should we not do so, we should be untrue to our God, ourselves, our fraternity, and our heritage.

Dr. T. Reginald Porter, National Board member and member of National Leadership Committee, counsels a group of chapter leaders concerning their participation in the Academy program.

A Thumb-nail Course in Leadership

The Academy at Bloomington highlighted a challenge to chapter officers for a dynamic man-building leadership

N ANY atmosphere where brothers gather, whether for work or for play, or a combination of both, the great thing is brother-hood.

The 380 Sig Eps who attended the 1966 Academy at Bloomington, Ind., August 20-24, found it so—at any rate, most of them.

Men began to arrive on Friday afternoon, but did not register until the following day, Saturday, which was a day of leisure until evening. At 6:00, delegates crowded the solarium of the Memorial Union where there was a reception line of national officers and Academy faculty to greet them. By 7:30 they were seated in the Alumni Hall of the Union for the opening banquet.

On the next morning, Sunday, church services were held at 7:00, breakfast at 7:45, and an opening session at 8:45. Grand President C. Maynard Turner described the work of the Academy, while Academy Dean R. Eric Weise explained just how that work was to be done.

Next came the keynote address by Eldon Nonnamaker, with the rest of the day given to class sessions, meals, an athletic break in the afternoon, with the evening climaxed by Talent Night.

The following day, Monday, was one mostly of class sessions, ending in the evening with presentation of a group of awards, entertainment provided by an outstanding group of musicians known as the Highwaymen, and several bonus sessions.

Again on Tuesday, the last day, the rising hour was 6:00, classroom sessions came thick and fast, with the evening banquet at Memorial Union, with the address by Brother Turner and a presentation of further awards ending the affair.

Joseph R. Ewers, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, welcomed the Sig Eps to Mrs. Ruth J. Young, the Indiana chapter's housemother, was a guest at the banquet and was vigorously applauded.

THE ADDRESSES . . .

S. Thomas Burnett, Tennessee Wesleyan, '64, speaking on "Man's Century of Change," said that the world that will be built tomorrow will be built by young men such as the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon. The great changes that have been made in the world have been made by young men. He said:

"We are now fighting not so much with bullets as with the hearts of men to demonstrate that freedom is the highest value. The desire of all people should be to plant peace.

S. Thomas Burnett, Tennessee Wesleyan, U. of Tennessee law student, banquet speaker.

Our country has served as a lantern in the dark for those who love freedom."

He urged young Sig Ep leaders to develop some zeal in their quest for knowledge, saying that "Knowledge is the root from which all progress grows. We must realize that freedom is a relative thing. Every American must have the same opportunity that I possess. We must be men of action with our responsibility. Tomorrow you and I will be making the decisions of this nation. We need a strong, progressive, and active nation."

Herbert E. Smith, associate director of student activities at the University and a national officer of Delta Upsilon, told the banquet audience that they should join forces with the university by living up to the finest traditions of the American college fraternity. Indiana, like most institutions of higher learning in this nation, exerts itself to make the good fraternity system feel at home.

C. Maynard Turner as chief speaker at the August 23 banquet stressed unity of purpose and dedication to responsibility and quality. "You have taken," he told the undergraduates, "and now it's time to give." He said that dedication of purpose must take place in the chapter, for the Fraternity's success depends on "your chapter's success."

One of the delightful features of the banquet was the singing of an excellent chorus of Sig Ep voices led by Bill Todd.

James Barta, of the Cleveland State chapter, thanked every one present for the success of the Academy as a prelude to extending an invitation to every one to attend the Cleveland Conclave in 1967.

THE LECTURES . . .

If the undergraduates forgot what the Alumni were for, William T. Todd refreshed them. Many a chapter has discovered what they are for when it has needed them and they have not been there. They and only they can be the saviors of the chapter when a situation of good leadership peters out and effective new leaders have not yet been found or developed.

What else do the alumni do?

Alumni often know where a considerable number of rushees may be found. Alumni can be used by the chapter to help protect it with the administration. An effective alumni program can help perpetuate the national fraternity.

Background material for the alumni program, Todd said, was found in the Ritual, the Book of Laws, The Officers' Guide, Educating for Brotherhood, and The Public Relations Guide.

Ray King during his lecture on Chapter Management stressed the necessity of "developing management people." He said: "In America, we have put a good deal of emphasis on aggressive management. Good management in a chapter is bound to lead to a successful chapter." He recommended that chapter leaders obtain and study Alfred Sloan's best-selling autobiography, My Years With General Motors, which shows the importance of having the right men at the top.

"The good officers should budget their time, since a good manager must first of all be a good manager of time." He defined management as "the art of getting results through other peoples' efforts." Chapter leaders must develop a skill for evaluating members and pledges as individuals so they will know what can be expected of them. There are few tragedies more serious for a chapter than when good leaders fail to replace themselves by neglecting to recruit the right kind of new men and seeing to their proper training.

A chapter's leaders should make certain that the Pledge Education course begins with the assumption that people are too precious to be wasted, according to Stewart Minton, dean for fraternities at Illinois. The Ritual, of course, and the new book, Educating for Brotherhood, give the essential guidelines.

Minton objects to the use of the term Pledge Education, since it implies that the job of educating has been done in the chapter as soon as the pledge has been initiated. However, the member needs to be re-educated constantly, witness the decline many chapters suffer when virtue, diligence, and brotherly love go out the window. When one of the three principles goes, they all go; they are inseparable.

It was a desolating experience to sit in on these sessions and hear one man after another from the mediocre and poor chapters of the Fraternity deprecate virtue. Some do not appear to have the slightest idea what real manhood is. Delegates expressed varying opinions about it. Some felt the Ritual was no longer applicable to chapter life. Virtue is a matter of personal taste, said many. However, an occasional leader would point out that the chief purpose of perfection as defined in the Ritual is to raise a high goal, again defined in the Ritual, which every pledge in the fraternity commits himself to reach and which he should strive to reach throughout all his days. Some also realize that the day is near when the apologists for mediocrity will have to get out of the chapters, give up their pretense of being fraternity men, and give their places to men of better moral capacity who are eager to fill them and worthy of doing so.

Bill MacDonough, retired vice-president of a leading New York advertising agency, said that the big job of fraternity Public Relations today is to overcome ignorance. Good public relations create favorable awareness and good attitudes. This is simply a matter of good communication.

Effort which men spend on public relations in the chapter helps give the chapter a position of leadership, and it also serves as a tool THE 1966 Sig Ep Academy was held in Foster Quadrangle, Indiana University, on August 20-24. Represented were 131 chapters, five colonies, and two groups interested in colonizing. Twenty-nine chapters and one colony were unable to attend.

The Academy took the form of lectures on such topics as Rush, Pledge Education, Ritual Interpretation, Scholarship, Chapter Management, Alumni Relations, Public Relations, Finances, and the National Headquarters.

Bonus sessions were conducted on kitchen management and other topics. Richard L. Shimpfky staged a model cabinet meeting. An initiation was conducted by Indiana members Tom Prall, Jerry Rodeen, Mickey Parmelee, Mac Thomas, Steve Thompson, and Dean Mendenhall.

Professors par excellence included Dr. Jack Early, William T. Todd, Raymond C. King, Robert L. Kirkpatrick, W. Stewart Minton, John W. Hartman, William A. MacDonough, J. Bedford Wooley, George Kaludis, and James R. Bernard.

Inspirational talks were given by Eldon R. Nonnamaker, S. Thomas Burnett, C. Maynard Turner, and Bedford W. Black. Briefer talks were given by Eric Weise, T. Reginald Porter, Darrel Brittsan, William G. Cross, and other leadership "pros."

Sorely missed at the Academy was Dean U. G. Dubach, who remained home in Oregon under his doctor's orders. Nevertheless, he spoke eloquently to the assembly through the inspiring color film, National Fraternity Leadership, which was made during the Fraternity's first leadership school. The force of Dr. Dubach's words concerning the ideals of Sigma Phi Epsilon and how to live up to them was reflected in the expressions upon the faces of young Sig Eps from the chapters of the nation as they listened to the moving oratory.

A hard-working "host" was Edson W. Sample of the University staff. Help was given in many departments by Executive Secretary Donald M. Johnson, Director of Chapter Services Richard L. Shimpfky, and staff representatives Steven A. Sullivan, Richard W. Myers, and William R. Drake, who "constructed the sets and supplied many of the lines."

Through the efforts of Rick Skinner, of San Jose State, and a staff of four, an Academy newspaper was born, known as The Academy Spectator.

Athletic breaks gave the participants a chance to relax at softball, tennis, and other pastimes. Those attending the Academy had rooms in Harper Hall and took their meals in the cafeteria.

of education. "Whatever time you put in on PR in the chapter will benefit you whatever profession you happen to be in. Communications skill will come in handy in almost anything," MacDonough said.

Jim Bernard in his treatment of Rushing Mechanics emphasized four key points: (1) Be first, (2) Have goals, (3) Know product, and (4) Believe in product. Personal conduct cannot be overdone.

He said good records should be kept with respect to having available for reference the rushee's home town, his academic and extracurricular background. A good chapter scrapbook is necessary in rushing while some chapters keep a diary. Also, rush clinics should be held for the purpose of educating all the brothers as to the details of the program.

For their effect in rushing, well-chosen words in a carefully edited brochure can accomplish something that personal contact cannot. "We could do a better job of selling if we were able to communicate to our rushees that the chapter's best asset is its ability to change behavior to make the man better than he is," said George Kaludis.

One of the finest lectures—that on Scholar-ship—was given by President Jack Early of Dakota Wesleyan University. He began where fraternity scholarship actually does begin—with the rushee. "I would hope that every person we rush can be considered as a member who will be initiated," he advised. We should get more information about the pledge than we do, particularly with respect to attitude and skills.

Dr. Early advised keeping regulations at a minimum but resorting to them where they assure a successful program. He would withhold voting privileges from those who make poor grades. He urged the use of incentives such as chapter scholarships, honor awards, the writing of letters to parents in praise of good scholars, and posting the grades of members and pledges on the bulletin board.

Time should be set aside in the pledge education program to emphasize scholarship. The Big Brother approach should be fully explored as should use of tutors, a scholarship committee, and a scholastic review board. We ought to set goals and standards, he urged.

According to Dr. Early, one index of evaluation of scholarship is the chapter library as opposed to the chapter trophy case. "We should have some basic books in the library to help us."

The Model Cabinet meeting staged by Dick Shimpfky brought out the duties and responsibilities of each officer and committee member. For example, the chaplain has charge of fireside discussions, faculty nights, initiation arrangements, as well as arranging for occasional group church attendance and raising the level of the chapter spiritually.

The Ritual was expertly explained by J. Bedford Wooley, former district governor.

Past and present district governors who helped make the Academy a success included: E. E. Axthelm, J. Richard Becker, James R. Barnard, Bedford W. Black, George H. Boothe, Alfred A. Bucci, William G. Cross, Robert E. Dunn, Roger C. Gilbertson, John W. Hartman, Reed A. Kepner, Robert L. Kirkpatrick, George D. Ormiston, Richard Panther, Trueman L. Sanderson, William T. Todd.

Chapter counselors registered included: Paul F. Becht, Darrel D. Brittsan, Joseph E. Deupree, Rev. Kenneth Geyer, Paul E. Maneth, Carl O. Petersen, Jerry A. Rose, George Socha, and William H. White.

The National Housing Corporation was represented by W. Brooks Reed; the national library program by Charles G. Eberly.

THE AWARDS . . .

Most highly prized of all awards were the handsome cups given to the six chapters judged "the Most Outstanding"—Ball State, Ferris State, Oregon State, Oregon, Tennessee Wesleyan, and Washington and Lee. Excelsior awards, for unusual improvement over the year, were given to East Texas State, Indiana Tech, Wichita, Virginia, and Wisconsin. William G. Cross presided at the presentation of awards.

Dave Rickards of the Bradley chapter received the Jenkens Award for the best job of Journal reporting, while John Kenneth Smith of Georgia Tech for the second year, was given the Frayser Award for editing the Fraternity's best chapter newspaper, The Red Door. A repeater for the Pafford Award for the best chapter scrapbook was Ohio State. Other trophies included Attendance, Bradley; Man-Mile, Colorado State; District Man-Mile, No. 18, California.

Silver bowls for 100 per cent Camp Fund contributions over a period of 10 years were presented to Georgia Tech, Lewis and Clark, Stetson, Vermont, Auburn, and Denver.

ENTERTAINMENT . . .

The Highwaymen did a superb entertaining job and exploited their enormous musical talent to the utmost. Two of the six were Florida Alpha alumni, which perhaps explained their extra-enthusiastic performance. The world-famed entertainers responded to the massive spirit of brotherhood which warmed the hall, and they came back for encore after encore.

At least a dozen talented entertainers came into the limelight on Talent Night, which Darrel Brittsan emceed with a professional flair. Dick Harmston and Bill Todd opened with a song, "Hello, Sig Eps!" to the tune of "Hello, Dolly!"

They were followed by Brad Black, Louisiana State, guitarist; Tom Scott, East Texas State, prestidigitator; Mike Morrow, LSU; Reverend Kenneth Geyer of Belmont Abbey playing the piano accompaniment for Bill Todd who sang "Danny Boy"; Bill MacDonough in a comedy monologue; Lew Vadheim, Montana State, comic pianist; and Bill Cowger, Monmouth, folk songs.

THE RESPONSE . . .

Kansas State leaders Jack Jackson, Jim Latham, and Warren Pray got extra mileage out of the Academy by holding a retreat on the weekend before school started to discuss ideas received at the Academy with the chapter members generally. They report that their enthusiasm was contagious.

Doug Hamilton, North Carolina State,

The Highwaymen, famed combo of musicians, were a colossal hit. Florida alumni Mose Henry and Renny Temple are members of group.

on Rush: "Using the enthusiasm brought back from the Academy, we put together one of the most successful rushing programs in recent years. Twenty-six men were pledged, whom we hope we shall train effectively so that all will be initiated."

Ogden Hamilton, Johns Hopkins, on Rush: "From the beginning of rush the word is Cut. We know that if we are to pledge any of the hotly contested men, we cannot scatter our rush strength by rushing too many nice guys with nothing to offer. Unless a man impresses a brother favorably (not just neutrally), he is removed from the list. As rush progresses, the men on the list become more than names, faces, and characteristics. They become the men we want. This leads to a strong pledge class in which each man is an important member, specifically accepted as an individual."

Bob Johnston, Johns Hopkins, on Alumni Relations: "Time, money, enthusiasm—all must be spent by the chapter. Results don't come right away. Miraculously, no long lost brother decides to donate a $50,000 house after the second mailing of a newsletter.

"The letters of acknowledgment come from South America, the vice-president of an oil company in Chicago, a university professor in New Jersey. Countless alumni who somehow never bothered with the fraternity or the college decide to make the trip to Homecoming and meet their buddies who somehow decided to do the same thing. Sometimes the chapter can provide the incentive to an alumni association that is dragging its feet. The result is renewed interest in all the members who may have graduated long ago when they remember that they are still members and the fraternity still has something to offer. A little effort in an alumni relations program can put the name of the fraternity back in front of those who may have forgotten it."

James White, Oshkosh State Colony, on Scholarship: "College students today have so much to learn, the problems of our society are so complex, and the people lacking an education expect so much from them. Therefore scholarship must be the primary duty of every Sig Ep. We do not think of change as an opponent, but as a tremendous challenge which we must meet."

Thomas M. Alexander, II, Belmont Abbey, on Challenge: "The challenge in the materialistic society in which we live must have outstanding leaders to overcome the chaos in that society. This challenge faces all of us in that we are tomorrow's choice of progress. It commands us to strive for the good, the honorable, the upright; to obtain and profess skills in making the world a little bit better for ourselves and for those with whom we have contact. Only by sincere and constant dedication can we overcome problems and show progress."

Thomas Scott, East Texas State, performed clever rope trick as "The Prestidigitator."

Mike Morrow, LSU, sang folk songs to entertain his Sig Ep audience. Darrel Brittsan emceed the loudly applauded program.

ONE FOR THE ROAD . . .

Editor Rick Skinner, San Jose State, in the Academy Spectator: "Bloomington falls silent again. The Sig Eps have left, by car, by train, by plane, to return to their campuses full of fresh memories of the 1966 Academy. They will remember the questions and the problems posed these four days. There was S. Thomas Burnett asking, 'Where do you stand?' And Dr. Nonnamaker—'Where will you be?' And perhaps most important of all, W. Stewart Minton—'Do you even care?'

"Do you even care? Think about it. Think about Sig Ep and the Ritual. And think about hypocrisy and negativism. Then, Brother, start moving. Because the elements of progress shown here can only bear fruit from the actions you will take back home. For the next year, you will have to be the Burnett, the Nonnamaker, the Minton for your own chapter. Get off that chair, run for the top, and most of all, rattle all the skeletons you can dig up.

"Push, Brother, push. The goals of Sigma Phi Epsilon depend only on you and what you learned here. Will you remember Bloomington?"

The College Fraternity Looks Ahead

An enlightening story about the work of the fraternities and their great promise and potential is presented in a new book

By NELSON POTTER

MONMOUTH

A New book, The College Fraternity and Its Modern Role, by John Robson (Menasha, Wis.: George Banta Company, Inc., 1966, $3) should find its way to the bookshelf of every fraternity house in this country. It is a very good book indeed. The work is helpful in a number of different ways: the earlier chapters should convince anyone inclined to doubt it that the fraternity system serves a useful role. The middle chapters concern the role which the fraternity ought to serve today; these chapters very usefully put the fraternity into a larger perspective. The last chapter, a chapter of questions and answers, concerns mostly the advantages of national over local fraternities.

The Gollege Fraternity and Its Modern Role

The general nature of the book will enable any particular reader, with a particular fraternity chapter or fraternity campus with its special problems in mind, to put those problems in a larger perspective.

After a brief introductory chapter, the author raises the question. How well informed are high school students about the nature and role of fraternities? He finds that they are not as well informed as they might be. Some high school students are against Greek-letter organizations because they do not know the facts about them. Even among those favorably inclined toward fraternities and sororities, there is a lack of information, for obvious reasons, for many such students don't understand the nature of fraternities. This chapter could well be read by high school students and their parents to overcome such lack of knowledge. Hence this chapter will also be of special interest to rush chairmen.

The next chapter concerns "The Spiritual Basis of Fraternity." This explains why the force and meaning of "brotherhood" are hard to put into words, but it also explains why brotherhood in its fullest meaning is to be found when men come to be brothers through choice, rather than through the chance associations of the college dormitory. It is clearly shown how a basis for the ideal of brotherhood is to be found in religion and in American democratic ideals. This chapter could be usefully read by those outside the fraternity system who are not aware that the fraternity system has behind it any ideals at all.

Chapter 4 is of the greatest interest to people inside the fraternity system, though, as with the previous chapters, it could well be read by anyone outside that system desiring to understand more fully what fraternities are all about. People within the fraternity system will be interested in this chapter because it attempts to state the role which the fraternity does or ought to play in the lives of its members and in campus and community life.

Mentioned are roles which actually are being played by fraternities—fraternities for the most part do promote their members' social development, fulfill a need for belonging, provide leadership training, and fill housing needs. Other roles are those which fraternities surely ought to be playing, but which, it seems to this observer, they in fact play less than they ought; for example, social service, promotion of scholarship—many nationals (Sig Ep included) and local chapters are good here (but there are also many that are not good), and the promotion of individuality.

This chapter can thus be used as a checklist to see in what degree, in a general way, a fraternity chapter is what it ought to be. Of course, individual readers will find these roles of unequal value—I find the role of the fraternity as a foe to atheism less important than the other roles enumerated—but still, taken all together, the chapter provides a very helpful checklist for determining a chapter's health.

An important contention of Chapter 5, "The Fraternity Chapter in Action," is that the fraternity functions as a laboratory for democratic leadership. In a fraternity one learns by doing instead of learning by studying. Thus, as the author suggests, the fraternity serves a function in the educational institution of which it is a part, which that institution itself cannot serve, given that its primary function is to impart the kind of knowledge gained through study.

Chapter 6 concerns "A Mature Role for Today's Chapter." This is perhaps the most ambitious chapter in the book. It is here that the fraternity system is put into a larger perspective. In the previous chapter it is stated that the fraternity is a laboratory for democracy. Now it is stated that it is that, but it is more. It is an application of the universal law of human brotherhood. Now there has been no period in human history prior to the present in which a lack of human fellow-feeling could have more disastrous consequences than in the present. Lack of love and understanding among men is today more dangerous than ever before. Thus one important role to be played by fraternities is the promotion of this ideal of brotherhood—not just in the limited context of fraternity life, but in the broader context of human life in general.

But there's more. In today's period of change, educational changes needed-and the fraternity can play a role in this change. The future of mankind, this book asserts, depends on promoting brotherhood in education. The fraternity can provide a first-hand acquaintance with the dynamics of this ideal-it can and it ought to provide a positive illustration of the way in which this ideal works in practice. Men need to have this kind of first-hand acquaintance with this important ideal if they are to promote it in their later life in their roles as leaders of society-and it is, after all, the better educated members of our society who will be its leaders.

The merits of The College Fraternity and Its Modern Role are clearly such that it can be read with profit by someone who knows nothing about fraternities and seeks to find out about them. At the same time it will be very useful to those within fraternities or dealing with them daily; for example, college administrators, and, less directly, even college and university trustees. It tells the reader in general terms what fraternities ought to be, and how they do or ought to fit into the bigger picture of life in this country.

The book could serve as an effective sourcebook of quotations and of arguments in favor of the value of fraternities. Not the least of the book's value lies in the many quotations from prominent Americans and leading college administrators about fraternities and the fraternity experience that are included.

The reviewer, a graduate of Monmouth College in 1961, served the chapter in a number of capacities, including that of president. From Monmouth where he edited the Oracle, he went to Johns Hopkins as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow and spent four years working on his Ph.D. in philosophy. He is now in his second year of fulltime teaching at the University of Nebraska.

HEADQUARTERS HEARTBEAT

BY DONALD M. JOHNSON-EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Excelsior: By ANY STANDARD, the Academy held in Bloomington, Indiana, August 20-24, must be rated a conspicuous success.

The nearly 400 registrants learned a great deal at the Academy and enjoyed fellowship with brothers from every part of the nation including the many national officials in attendance. The registrants left Indiana University with a greater knowledge of the Fraternity, its purposes and programs. They also were enthusiastic about learning the mechanics of ideal chapter operation, and they were eager to gain first-hand practical experience of what it means to belong to a high-achieving national fraternity.

And they returned to their campus confident that they could use successfully the new concepts and techniques they had learned. Although the Academy program is only three years old, it quickly set a dynamic pattern that strengthens every Fraternity activity and is epitomized by the epithet, "Excelsior!"

1967 Grand Chapter/Academy CLEVELAND, OHIO, as the site and the dates of August 26-30 were selected for the 1967 Grand Chapter/Academy (GC/A) by the National Board of Directors in the Indianapolis, Indiana, meeting just prior to convening the 1966 Academy. Brother James F. Barta, president of the Cleveland State chapter, announced the Board decision at the Academy's concluding banquet.

In addition to being the home of the Browns professional football team, Cleveland has outstanding convention facilities. Centrally located, the city is a transportation hub offering unusually fine air, auto, bus, and train connections. There are several excellent hotels to choose from; the most suitable will be selected.

Following the 1965 New York City convention's successful format, the 1967 Conclave sessions will be combined with the Academy program. There will be a difference, however: either the legislative sessions or the Academy sessions will be scheduled for an entire day or the majority of it; they will not be mingled as was done in New York.

The National Leadership Committee will meet in Cleveland November 11-13 to make final arrangements for the GC/A, which will convene Saturday afternoon, August 26, and adjourn Wednesday noon, August 30. Tentative plans include an open afternoon and evening when the Cleveland Browns will be featured in a pro football doubleheader.

Better mark the dates, August 26-30, 1967, on your calendar today!

NHQ Construction Report SINCE reporting in the September JOURNAL that the national headquarters building was under construction, I am often asked, "How is the building coming along?" The standard reply is: "Slowly."

The accompanying cut of a photo taken in late September shows that construction has not gone very far. However, it has reached the stage when it will soon go much faster. Delayed shipment of some materials has hampered progress; in fact, nondelivery of the basement fire doors is holding up the masons who are ready to lay the bearing walls but cannot, because the fire door frames must be tied into the masonry. And the steel beams cannot be placed until the bearing wall is completed; thus, everything down the line is delayed because of one item.

On the other hand, we have tried to anticipate our needs for those items in critical supply because of the war effort. Copper electrical tubing and the air-conditioning equipment, for example, were ordered and delivered several months ago.

Delivery of the fire doors is expected momentarily, so by the time you read this the bearing wall and steel beams will be in place, and the masons will be laying the second-story brick and concrete block walls. Perhaps the second-floor steel beams will be in place also.

It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy in late spring or early summer 1967. The building, to be named the Sigma Phi Epsilon Headquarters, will be dedicated on Founders' Day next year.

Graduate Activities Director The Fraternity's first full-time Graduate Activities Director will be hired this year. This good news comes from the National Board of Directors annual meeting where the candidate applications were reviewed.

Although some of the applicants are well known to the Board, all the candidates offer excellent credentials; apparently there will be no problem in finding a well-qualified man. Grand President Turner will be in Richmond during November to interview the applicants; Board approval is expected shortly after the interviews are completed.

Candidates Committee Grand President C. Maynard Turner has appointed the Candidate Qualifications Committee comprised of Chapter Counselor Darrel D. Brittsan, District Governor John W. Hartman, former National Director Frank N. Martino, District Governor Richard E. Pahre, National Housing Corporation President J. Russell Pratt, and California Zeta Alumni Treasurer Richard F. Whiteman. Brother Martino is chairman.

The Candidate Qualifications Committee is appointed to accept and compile the names and qualifications of all members of Sigma Phi Epsilon who desire to serve the Fraternity by election, at the next succeeding session of the Grand Chapter, to any elective office to be considered. The committee will accept names of possible candidates until February 1, 1967, and until that date any member in good standing may submit in writing to the committee, in care of the National Headquarters of the Fraternity, names of those he considers qualified.

The committee will consider all names submitted and will compile a list of suitably qualified candidates from the names and from other sources available to it; the list will be sent to the National Board of Directors for presentation to the chapters prior to the session of the Grand Chapter. The list will also be made available to the Nominations Committee of the Grand Chapter when it has been appointed.

Elmer Louis Kayser receives anniversary cake from George Washington student president.

A Great Teacher Nears a Milestone

Elmer Louis Kayser of George Washington University begins his fiftieth year of making history come alive

Istory 39 convened in a George Washington University classroom at 10:10 A.M. yesterday, and Dr. Elmer Louis Kayser was there once more, accepting a cake, speaking of paleolithic man, and finding again what Ponce de Leon couldn't."

Thus wrote Washington Daily News writer David Holmgren in describing a ceremony staged by 160 students who rose up and gave an ovation to a beloved GWU professor who had taught college students for a period of 50 years. He was 70 years old and would retire at the close of the term.

As a young man Dean Kayser had himself learned history in a classroom of the University, where he and Sigma Phi Epsilon formed a rewarding association which has gone on.

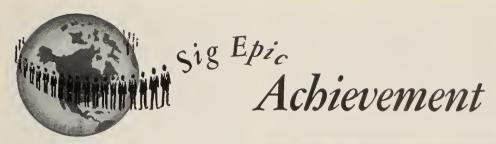

Dean Kayser retired several years ago as dean of university students. He was named official historian of the University and continued to teach classes. Because he is a good teacher, the students have always signed up for his course in the development of Western Civilization in large numbers.

He has made history come alive. His lectures are witty and entertaining, delivered with flourishes and asides.

In his 50 years at George Washington, Dr. Kayser has been University marshal, dean of the division of the University Students, director of the Summer School, and director of the School of Government.

When he began his teaching career, the George Washington campus boasted a single building, and 8 students gathered in a small classroom to attend his course. Today, the number was 20-fold.

"You must remember what every teacher knows," said Professor Kayser, holding the anniversary cake, "we've found what Ponce de Leon never did find: a place where youth always exists."

VOCATIONAL AND PROFESSIONAL ACHIEVEMENTS IN BRIEF

HOLLY V. HOLCOMB, Oregon State, '39, has been appointed superintendent of the Oregon State Police. He had been deputy superintendent.

For three years quarterback on the football team of his alma mater, Holcomb started at the bottom with the State Police upon leaving the campus and rose to the top. He served in the traffic division and was promoted to sergeant in 1947. He became lieutenant on the arson squad at Milwaukie in 1955 and was made captain four years later.

During World War II, he piloted a cargo plane for three years, hauling men and supplies to Australia, New Guinea, the Philippines, Okinawa, and Japan.

Americans today need to give serious consideration to the personal responses they wish to make to a number of basic challenges facing our nation, ROBERT G. DUNLOP, Pennsylvania, '31, president of Sun Oil Co., stated in a recent column titled "Viewpoint," in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

He said it was vital to develop more fully our talents and to increase our contribution to our world by meeting all challenges.

Dunlop identified today's three key challenges as:

The political challenge posed by the expansionist aims of world communism;

The economic challenge stemming from imposition of a growing military effort on an economy already operating at high levels; and

The moral challenge posed by the declining role of religion in our lives.

Holly V. Holcomb Oregon State, '39, superintendent of Oregon State Police.

Noting that inflationary pressures are steadily growing in intensity, Dunlop said the basic economic challenge "is that of adjusting to the rising demands of the Vietnam effort without hamstringing our economy in the process."

In meeting this challenge, he said, business management and employees share a responsibility "to consider carefully any actions that would tend to boost costs above productivity gains." And Government, he added, must be prepared "to reduce spending for nonessential programs until we are better able to afford them."

The alternative to holding the line on costs and spending will likely be imposition of new controls on the economy.

The spiritual challenge facing the nation is reflected in deteriorating standards of morality, in rising rates of crime, in increasing juvenile delinquency, and in a continuing decline in the role of religion in many areas of our national life, Dunlop asserted, adding:

"The tragedy is that we seem to be letting our religious heritage wither away through apathy and indifference, even though there is abundant evidence of what the loss of religious faith ultimately means."

He called this loss of religious faith perhaps the most serious problem we face.

"I think that today large numbers of Americans are concerned about the declining role of religion in our lives, and are anxious to see this trend reversed. Toward this end, I suggest that we need to re-examine our religious beliefs and moral standards, and to give serious thought to our personal response to the spiritual challenge we face."

JOHN J. DALEY, Norwich, '48, lieutenant governor of Vermont, is the subject of an interesting profile in the July-August 1966 Norwich Record.

Before election to his high office, in 1964, (the first Democrat ever elected to the post in the Green Mountain State), he had served as mayor of his home town of Rutland, and he continues to commute daily to Montpelier from that city—a round-trip distance of 136 miles.

In his Norwich days, Daley captained both the football and basketball teams. He served in the 1st Marine Division in the Pacific Theater during World War II.

Serving successively as a sales representative for drugs, textbooks, and jeep automobiles, he entered politics in 1957 in the aldermanic race in Rutland.

HERBERT C. BLUNCK, California, for some years a vice-president of the chain of Hilton Hotels, has been named a special assistant to the president in charge of corporate affairs. He will remain in Washington where he has been in charge of operations. His new title will be senior vice-president.

A native of Seattle, Wash., Blunck came to Washington in 1944 as manager of the then new Statler. In a story featuring his recent promotion, Washington Post writer Paul Herron said: "Tall, trim, and kindly, his career has had a Horatio Alger quality, beginning as a room clerk at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco and rising to the position of trusted adviser to the corporate head of 32 major hotels and inns throughout the United States."

RICHARD H. SYRING, Oregon, '28, has joined the Bank of California at Portland, Ore., as director of public relations.

M. L. McLaughlin, Texas, '50 western sales promotion manager for G. E. Co.

Barry Pavelec, Rutgers, '62, new program development manager for Dow Jones & Co.

PHILIP T. LINCOLN, JR., Michigan, of Jackson, Mich., has been named by President Lyndon B. Johnson as a Foreign Service Officer of the United States. He awaits assignment to one of the 113 countries with which the United States maintains diplomatic relations or with the Department of State in Washington, D.C.

M. L. McLaughlin, Texas, '50, has been named manager of sales promotion for General Electric Company's western region with headquarters in San Francisco. This region covers California, Washington, Oregon, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Alaska, Hawaii, and parts of New Mexico and South Dakota. He had been senior sales promotion specialist in the Los Angeles office.

ROBERT D. ALLEN, Oklahoma, has been appointed House Counsel for the Washington, D.C. office of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. He had been attorney for Southwestern Bell Telephone in Oklahoma.

James A. Lane, Ohio State, has joined the staff of Humber, Mundie, and McClary, national consulting psychologists, of Milwaukee, Wis. His office is at 2021 Marine Plaza.

BARRY PAVELEC, Rutgers, '62, formerly promotion assistant for Dow Jones & Co. and onetime sales promotion manager for McGraw-Hill, Inc., has been named a program development manager for Dow Jones. He will develop and spark programs for recruiting, training, and sales promotion in the company's newsdealer sales area.

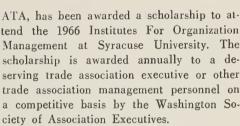

ROBERT L. RYAN, California, '25, longtime manager of the Bank of America, Hollywood, Calif., branch, has ended his retirement to accept the post of business manager of Black Foxe boys' private military school in Los Angeles. He served as Grand President of Sigma Phi Epsilon in 1946.

JACK E. KRUEGER, Wisconsin, news and public affairs manager of WTMJ-TV and WTMJ radio, has been named a winner in the National Safety Council's public service competition for distinguished service to accident prevention by an individual on a radio station. During 1965, Krueger's editorials, of which there were 44, were broadcast over the stations aimed at every listener and viewer who could contribute to accident prevention.

James W. Boyer, Maryland, '55, awarded transportation scholarship at Syracuse.

During his undergraduate days, Boyer received the Davidson Transfer and Storage Company's scholarship award for outstanding work in transportation study and the National Airport Women's Club's award in recognition of his contribution to transportation studies, Boyer began his career with the American Trucking Association, Inc., as executive secretary of the Operations Council. Nine years later he went with the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. as a transportation analyst and just recently moved over to his post with the Contract Carrier Conference.

RALPH L. WILSON, Lehigh, '21, as patron of fine arts at Lehigh presented the University with three canvases which have been the center of national acclaim. He has been the major contributor to the Permanent Collection of Paintings of the University, known as the Wilson Collection.

Ralph L. Wilson, Lehigh, '21, metallurgical engineer, helps alma mater's art program.

As director of metallurgy of the Timken Roller Bearing Co., past president of the American Society of Metals, and the Sigma Phi Epsilon Alumni Association, it was his donation which made it possible for the Lehigh Sig Eps to complete their new house.

STEWART A. SHAFER, Colorado, well-known Denver, Colo., attorney, was elected president of the Denver Bar Association in June. He is a former member of the alumni board of his chapter.

James O. Lewis, Youngstown, of Youngstown, Ohio, has been awarded a company trophy for leading 5,600 Nationwide Insurance agents in 1965 in family account service. He placed among the top 13 agents in the Company in life insurance production.

He earned membership in the 1966 President's club, for which he received recognition at the eighth annual President's Club conference, at the Grand Hotel, Mackinac Island, Mich.

ROBERT E. COBURN, JR., Alabama, '34, has been appointed as attorney for the Labor Department of the State of Alabama. He succeeds chapter brother Norman T. Spann, deceased.

Roger H. Clarke, Jr., Richmond, honored for work at Norfolk insurance executive.

R. Paul Ritter, Wisconsin, in newly created post for Associates Investment Co., Indiana.

ROGER H. CLARKE, JR., Richmond, Virginia representative for the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., received the company's chartered life underwriter designation at a meeting at Boston, Mass., in September. His office is at Norfolk.

FRED L. FAIR, Kansas State, '37, president of the Alden State Bank, Alden, Kan., was one of several of the state's bankers chosen to participate in a European People-to-People good will mission in August. Members of the tour met government officials in England, Belgium, Russia, Poland, Hungary, and Germany.

L. W. Newcomer, Kansas State, '23, chief engineer and manager of the Kansas Turnpike Authority, visited Rome, Italy, in September to address the International Bridge Tunnel and Turnpike Authority. He has served during the past year as president.

Newcomer commanded a group of Seabees in the South Pacific during World War II.

DONALD L. BOGENRIEF, Drake, '62, has been named manager of Pacific Mutual Life's group insurance office at Indianapolis, Ind. He has had two years of group management experience in the Indianapolis area.

R. PAUL RITTER, Wisconsin, a vice-president of Associates Investment Co., South Bend, Ind., has been promoted to the newly created job of vice-president in charge of personal loan development. He is a Navy veteran of World War II.

HARRY L. JOHNSON, Middlebury, '57, representative of the Binghamton, N.Y., general agency of National Life Insurance Co., has been elected vice-president of the Binghamton Life Underwriters Association. Captain of his alma mater's 1956 football team, he is a member of the coveted Million Dollar Round Table.

DONALD A. WATNE, Montana, financial analyst with the Weyerhaeuser Co., at Tacoma, Wash., has been named manager of financial analysis for the company. He will be responsible for analysis and review of major capital investments and lease proposals for the paper manufacturing firm.

GILBERT E. BROOKS, Arizona, a representative of National Life Insurance Co. of Vermont at Charleston, S.C., was honored in July by the South Carolina National Bank, Columbia, at a testimonial dinner. He is a member of the Million Dollar Round Table.

G. Robert Holsinger, Ohio State, '47, executive assistant to OSU president.

Charles H. Pulley, Ohio Wesleyan, '40, outstanding benefactor of his alma mater.

EVENTS OF DISTINCTION IN THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

G. ROBERT HOLSINGER, Ohio State, '47, dean of his alma mater's division of continuing education since 1961, has been promoted to the post of executive assistant to the president of the University.

An assistant professor in the Department of Classical Languages and the School of Journalism, he has served as secretary of the Faculty Council since 1962 and he will retain this responsibility. He received his doctorate from Ohio State in 1952.

WILLIAM C. Succ, Auburn, '31, who recently retired as director of domestic pharmaceutical sales for Upjohn Co., has been named assistant to the dean of the school of pharmacy at his alma mater. He will seek to develop the school's continuing education programs.

TERRY PERKINS, Kentucky Wesleyan, '64, has returned from the Peace Corps service after being stationed in Liberia for two years. He taught world history and world geography at St. Cyrian's Holy Commission. He is working toward his teacher's certificate.

CHARLES H. PULLEY, Ohio Wesleyan, '40, who served as a field secretary for the fraternity in 1940-42, has been elected an Ohio Wesleyan University Associate. The Associates are outstanding men and women throughout the nation dedicated to the development and growth of the University.

Pulley is president of Irving Air Chute Co. of Lexington, Ky.

James H. Corley, California, vice-president emeritus of his alma mater, has assumed the responsibility for setting up a new Washington, D.C., office for the California State Colleges.

Before his retirement two years ago, Corley was the University's principal spokesman in Sacramento and Washington. He had served his alma mater for 38 years.

Rodney Rhoades, Miami (Ohio), specialist in physiology, has been appointed assistant professor of veterinary science at Pennsylvania State. He holds a Ph. D. from Ohio State.

From 1964 to 1966, Dr. Rhoades studied under a National Aeronautics and Space Administration fellowship at Ohio State. He has done research on the physiological effects of air pollution.

James G. Barratt, Oregon State, '50, is the new director of athletics at Oregon State University. Recipient of the U. G. Dubach award at OSU presented annually to the five top graduating male seniors, he went on to serve for one year as assistant alumni director under another Sig Ep, Bob Knoll, '47. For the next 15 years he worked his way up from athletic business manager and golf coach to assistant director to the top position.

Among his undergraduate accomplishments at OSU was the editorship of the Daily Barometer, campus newspaper.

Although a freshman among the nation's athletic directors, he was chosen chairman of the athletic directors of the AAWU conference, and prior to that was a national vice-president among the nation's athletic business managers.

He is the younger brother of another outstanding Sig Ep. Bill Barratt, Oregon State, '43, a former chapter president who is now a banker in Spokane, Wash.

J. R. Hubbard, Auburn, '39, poultry specialist in the extension service of his alma mater, was recently cited for his work in the development and expansion of Alabama's poultry industry which now grosses producers more than $200,000,000 annually. With the citation went the nation's 1966 Pfizer Extension Award of $1,000.

A recent state-wide program to reduce broiler condemnation was singled out as an example of his leadership. He worked with contractors, hatcherymen, processors, and federal inspectors in a program which resulted in a substantial increase in the broiler income of poultrymen throughout the state.

STANLEY WEDBERG, Connecticut faculty adviser, has been promoted to the position of Faculty Coordinator of Educational Television. Formerly head of the Bacteriology Department, Dr. Wedberg is also a member of Governor Dempsey's committee on water pollution.

JACK H. SWING, Illinois, '49, who has been on the faculty of his alma mater since 1959, was named chairman of the Department of Architecture in September.

James Barratt, Oregon State, '50, new athletic director for his alma mater.

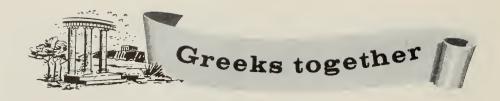

RONALD C. KEITHLEY, Michigan State, '66, of rural Hastings, Mich., is one of the 24 of the nation's outstanding college graduates named as a Root-Tilden scholar.

The Root-Tilden program, conducted at the New York University School of Law, "seeks not only to train lawyers, but to instill in them the desire to use their talents effectively in the public service." The scholarships, named for a former Secretary of War and a former governor of New York, are valued at $3,300 a year.

BERT SCHMITT, Southeast Missouri, has returned from Bulgaria where he completed work on his first motion picture The Piper. It was the first co-production between any eastern European Country and the United States. It is a musical fantasy to be released soon.

JAMES FRISELLA, Southeast Missouri, has been appointed director of recreation and physical education for the St. Louis Job Corps for Women.

CHARLES J. HARTMAN, Washington U. (Mo.), '59, has left the student personnel office at the University of Missouri to return to his alma mater as coordinator of residence programs.

INTERFRATERNITY

UNDERGRADUATE, graduate, and educational leaders will view the topic, "The Changing Education World—the Opportunity for Fraternities," at the National Interfraternity Conference at New Orleans, on November 30-December 3. The Jung Hotel will serve as headquarters.

Conference Vice-president Fred H. Turner,  $\Sigma$  A E, is in charge of program plans which are virtually complete. William E. LeClere, X  $\Psi$ , as chairman for the National Conference of Interfraternity Councils has worked closely with Dean Turner to see that the undergraduates who attend get a thoroughly worth-while fare.

The banquet speaker will be Dr. Lee F. Tuttle, president of  $\Lambda$  X A. Other important addresses will be given by President Herbert E. Longenecker,  $\Sigma$  II, of Tulane University; President Grady St. Clair, of Del Mar College, Texas; and Dr. James D. Logsdon, an eminent Illinois educator.

Sigma Phi Epsilon's Executive Director Donald M. Johnson has been an industrious participant in Conference activities. Last year he was chairman of the National Conference of Interfraternity Councils and at the July meeting of the College Fraternity Secretaries Association was named to the executive committee of this important organization. He is also a member of the nominating committee of the NIC.

Tau Kappa Epsilon still leads all 61 member fraternities of the National Interfraternity Conference in number of chapters. Sigma Phi Epsilon is in second place, but Λ X Λ with a vigorous colonization program is catching up.

Tau Kappa Epsilon (1889)221

Seated: Jack Anson,  $\Phi$  K T, Lewis Bacon,  $\Phi$  K  $\Lambda$ , Rex Smith,  $\Sigma$   $\Lambda$  E, William Forester, K  $\Lambda$  Order.

WHAT THEY'RE DOING

Dean Fred H. Turner has resigned as editor of IRAC Bulletin after fourteen years of service. His successor is Mrs. Betty Hinckle Dunn, A X  $\Omega$ ,  $\Theta$   $\Sigma$   $\Phi$ , DePauw-Illinois, '30, of Chicago, who is the Professional Panhellenic Association representative on IRAC.

Dean Turner's resignation coincides with resigning his dean's post at Illinois and assumption of new duties for the University beginning September 1.

BETA THETA P1's great leader, Dr. Seth R. Brooks, minister of the Universalist National Memorial Church, Washington, D.C., has retired from the presidency of his fraternity. One of the all-time great leaders of B  $\odot$   $\Pi$ , he was initiated by the St. Lawrence chapter, served as district chief, then general secretary, and then as national president from 1960 until 1966. He is one of Greekdom's most inspiring and eloquent speakers.

MISS AMERICA 1967 is an A X  $\Omega$  from Oklahoma City University, as well as a member of  $\Sigma$  A I. Her name—Jane Anne Jayroe. The 19-year-old junior represented Oklahoma in the pageant.

Of the five finalists, two are sorority members—Miss Ohio, Sharon Phillian,  $\Delta \Gamma$ ; and Miss New Hampshire, Nancy Anne Naylor,  $\Delta \Delta \Delta$ .

In all, 19 of America's 50 states were represented by young ladies of Sorority Row. Kappa Alpha Theta and Tri Delta shared top honors for each having three candidates; A X  $\Omega$ , A O  $\Pi$ , and  $\Pi$  B  $\Phi$  each had two.

THE University of North Dakota plans to add a fraternity to its system in the immediate future and another within three years.

The selection of the fraternity to be extended colonization privileges is the responsibility of a Presidential Committee. The committee has notified the National Interfraternity Conference, the College Fraternity Secretaries Association, and all fraternities who have made inquiries at the University within the past seven years.

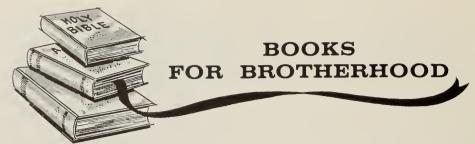

Miss America 1967 is Alpha Chi Omega's Jane Anne Jayroe, who was Miss Oklahoma.

No Greek-letter society has a motto more wishful than Phi Kappa Phi's—"Philosophia Kratei Photon"—"The love of learning rules the world." The right kind of love for the right kind of learning could rule the world, but there obviously isn't enough of it and it obviously doesn't.

THEY SAY

WILLIAM E. DAVIS, A T Ω, president of Idalio State University, in The Palm: "One of the great problems in our universities is to break our large, rapidly growing student bodies into smaller communities wherein the individual not only can find some semblance of selfidentity and a sense of belonging, but also friendship, understanding, and a dedication to high ideals. Fraternities, at their best, seem well suited for such tasks. They can emphasize that good scholarship can co-exist with good fellowship, that seriousness of purpose can live side by side with spirit and enthusiasm, and that love for fraternity and love for alma mater are so closely intertwined that they strengthen one's loyalty to both rather than divide."

NATIONAL LIBRARIAN

A STRONG commitment has been made to have a National Library at the new Memorial Headquarters Building in Richmond; almost one-third of the second floor of the building now under construction is programmed to contain the National Library and the Archives of the Fraternity.

The Archives, because it will be used to preserve important memorabilia of Sigma Phi Epsilon, will be a valuable and useful addition to the Headquarters. How can the National Library be a similarly useful addition to the Fraternity?

At present, the library consists of about 300 books from the estate of Uncle Billy Phillips. Surely Uncle Billy had a number of thoughts about how the national library would serve the Fraternity since he left his personal collection to form the nucleus of the library. Whatever he may have envisioned, it seems certain the library would have been a useful instrument to further the development of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

According to a study by Vance Harper Jones, at Emory University, approximately two-thirds of the 61 NIC fraternities have libraries at their national headquarters. The largest is Sigma Alpha Epsilon's which has 7,000 volumes. The smallest reported contains 100 volumes, and the average national library has nearly 900 volumes. Most of the holdings in the libraries are (1) books by and about members of the given fraternity, (2) general fraternity literature, and (3) fraternity archives. A unique national library is that of Delta Upsilon which is a part of the American College Fraternity section of the New York Public Library and is on loan to the library to aid scholarship on the fraternity system. The former library of the great Beta leader, William Raimond Baird, is also a collection of the New York Public Library.

In my view, Sigma Phi Epsilon's National Library should serve as a source collection of materials for scholarship on fraternity, and preserve those books significant to Sigma Phi Epsilon and its members. It has been indicated previously that the library would consist of books by and about members of the fraternity. Such books would form an important part of the library.

But what further collections should be planned? Might Sigma Phi Epsilon feasibly develop a useful research library such as Delta Upsilon's in the New York Public Library? The cost of acquiring such a facility, which would duplicate Delta Upsilon's, Sigma Alpha Epsilon's, and Sigma Nu's, would be considerable even if acquired gradually. Even if one were to suggest a fraternity research library be designated or developed on a regional basis, Sigma Nu's 5,000 volumes at Lexington, Va., would be more than adequate. It would not appear practical for Sigma Phi Epsilon to collect a very extensive fraternity research library.

Since there is a separate Archives Section in the new Memorial Headquarters, the function of preserving historical records need not be undertaken by the National Library.

Are new possibilities for the purposes of a fraternity national library available? Can the Sigma Phi Epsilon library be structured to grow in a new, imaginative direction rather than in a haphazard manner? It would be beyond the scope of the library, as well as narrow its use, to attempt to make collections of the personal papers of famous alumni. Since the library is not public, it has no particular lending function.

There are some new directions it might try, however. One is to act as a source of audiovisual materials for the undergraduate chapters on the subject of fraternity. Thus, it would seem appropriate to make tapes of the significant speeches of various leaders of the fraternity—as has already been done with the very inspiring talk of Ulysses Grant Dubach. Extending the concept of lending to alumni and undergraduate members further, it seems possible to publish a general list of the holdings of the library, develop a workable lending system, and make the books available by mail to interested alumni and undergraduates for their use.

The only immediate answer to the problem of a useful purpose for the Sigma Phi Epsilon national library is to justify one of the previously examined reasons for national libraries on the basis of its historical value. A collection of general fraternity literature and books by and about members does have some meaningful historical significance. Two of the primary functions of any library are to collect and preserve present knowledge.

With a historical rationale in mind, it is possible to justify a purpose for Sigma Phi Epsilon's library as a depository for the literary works of the men of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Such an explanation makes no particular distinction for Sigma Phi Epsilon's national library from that of other national libraries.

As long as Sigma Phi Epsilon is developing what is essentially a library from scratch, it seems logical that it should have some unique purpose above the common level. I would surely welcome any suggestions as to how such a purpose might be achieved.

Whatever the resolution to the problem of the library's philosophical purpose, it is evident that there is much more to be done before a well-organized library of any kind is available at Memorial Headquarters. If works by and about members are to be collected, thousands of man-hours of work will be required, and considerable interest will need to be generated in the national library among the alumni members of the fraternity to donate the necessary volumes or the funds to buy them.

The challenge of developing a significant national library, although not unique to Sigma Phi Epsilon, presents to the fraternity

STANLEY ROMANOSKI, West Virginia, '41, president of the alumni board, has been the leader in the revitalization of his chapter at the University.

Two years ago Beta chapter had one member and no house. Today they have 45 members, the largest house on campus and the largest pledge class on campus. With the help of the alumni, the chapter has selectively grown back to importance.

Brother Romanoski knows how to use the formula for a winning game. As the track and field and cross country coach at the University, he has proved this.

As a high school coach he compiled a 68-27-5 record in football. He led his track team to victories in all major track meets and the state championship in his last year as a high school coach. He was the West Virginia high school coach of the year in 1957. The next fall he became coach of the West Virginia University running teams.

Coach Romanoski did a lot to develop cross country teams at the high school level after he came to the University. He believes that long distance running is the supreme physical developer because it develops the heart and lungs to their greatest capacity. "Fortitude," said Romanoski, "is usually more valuable to a distance runner than talent. I think distance running develops fortitude and there is more than just big muscles. They are developed on the inside and that is where it counts."—Gary Grady

NOVEMBER 1, 1901

The tradition known as the Founders' Day is a respected ceremony of great importance to the Fraternity.

On November 1, alumni and undergraduates on many campuses and in the large cities where there are alumni chapters and associations, will observe Sigma Phi Epsilon's 65th birthday at dinners and banquets.

Tribute will be paid to the twelve young men who established the Fraternity at Richmond College, Virginia, on November 1, 1901. Of the twelve, three are still living. They are:

William Hugh Carter, of Salem, Va.
Lucian Baum Cox, Norfolk, Va.
Thomas Vaden McCaul, Gainesville, Fla.
Nine have passed to the Eternal Chapter—

OTHER GET-TOGETHERS AND EVENTS

At Baker, members of the alumni corporation recently elected the following officers: Richmond Enochs, president; Howard James, vice-president;

Southeast Missouri alumni get together.

William Lunday, secretary; and Ernest Mai, treasurer. Other board members include Jimmy Dick, Jim Taylor, and Ray Terrill.

Bradley alumni are invited to return to Peoria to celebrate the chapter's 17th anniversary during the first week of January. An announcement of the program will reach them soon.

Illinois Sig Eps sponsored an alumni reunion banquet at the Brass Rail in Urbana on May 21. Ken Ladage headed a committee of undergraduates that made the plans for the first such reunion held in several years. Col. Harold Dorsett, George Washington, '38, chairman of the alumni board, and Frank Benson, president, spoke at the dinner.

Iowa Sig Eps welcomed their alumni to a Homecoming celebration the weekend of October 22. Iowa's gridiron foe was Northwestern.

Recent activities of the Massachusetts alumni included Homecoming (Alma Mater vs. Boston U.) at Alumni Stadium on October 22. A Sig Ep tailgate picnic was held before the game in the parking lot of the stadium, complete with refreshments and a large Sig Ep banner.

After the dinner which followed, and at the business meeting, John Rosenberg was elected president of the alumni board succeeding Capt. Bruce Nilsson whose reassignment to Vietnam caused him to resign. Other board members are Dick Steele, Bill Carroll, Mal Rice, and Gus Nyberg.

Members of the Morgantown Alumni Association gave an honors dinner for the recent initiates of the West Virginia Chapter on September 19 at the chapter house. Guests included members of the ladies' auxiliary.

Members of the Montgomery alumni association were the guests of L. H. Walden, president of the association, at his cabin on Lake Jordan during the summer. Some 30 brothers enjoyed steaks and fellowship. Other functions have been planned including a bingo party at the Montgomery Elks Club and a Christmas party at a place to be announced.

North Carolina Sig Eps will hold their annual Alumni Day on November 12. Highlight will be the Carolina-Air Force football game—a return match for the Air Force who lost to Carolina 36-13 in the 1964 Gator Bowl. The dinner will be followed by an alumni reception, general meeting, dinner, and a party.

Ohio State alumni and undergraduates will celebrate the chapter's 59th birthday at the Annual Founders' Day Banquet on January 28. Highlight of the banquet will be the mortgage-burning ceremony. Alumni Relations Chairman Eric Herpmann is contacting Ohio Gamma Alumni and urges all to plan to attend.

The Southeast Missouri alumni met in St. Louis at the River Queen Restaurant, August 10. Jim Schiedt, a member of the active body, answered questions and explained the fall plans for the chapter. The November dinner meeting which will be the second annual St. Louis Founders' Day meeting will be held November 7. Again it will be on the River Queen and Bob Broeg, Sig Ep from Missouri U. and sports editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, will be the speaker.

good of the Order

George H. Boothe, Jr., Cincinnati, '65, has been appointed governor of District 9.

DISTRICT PERSONALĪTIES AND PROGRAMS

George Harold Boothe, Jr., Cincinnati, '65, is the new governor of District 9, embracing the Ohio State, Ohio Wesleyan, Miami, Cincinnati, Marshall Chapters, and the petitioning group at Ohio University—which have been without a governor.

Boothe's work for the Fraternity began when his pledgeship began; he was elected president of his pledge class. The following year he served as Greek Week chairman and as Queen of Hearts ball publicity chairman. Next he became pledgetrainer and also served as social chairman, rush chairman, alumni relations chairman. He served one term as senior marshal.

On the campus, Boothe participated in Spirit Club, Greek Week Committee, and in the IFC, both as a representative and on the rush committee. He was also active in IEEE.

As a cooperative student, Boothe was employed by R. A. Jones & Co., Covington, Ky. His present position is that of control systems engineer for Union Carbide Corporation, of South Charleston, W.Va.

Hobbies include swimming, handball, sports cars, and hi-fi, He is unmarried.

REGIONAL REVELRY AND RIVALRY

West Virginia Sig Eps will host a first annual invitational duplicate bridge tournament on April 1. There will be two sessions, 1:00 P.M. and 7:00 P.M., which will be followed by a brotherhood party.

The winning team will be presented a traveling trophy and a permanent plaque. Mrs. Orrin Cross, professor of economics and director of the Morgantown Bridge Club, will direct the tournament.

Any Sig Ep chapter is eligible. The entry fee of $6 per team covers meals and lodging at the chapter house for the duration of the tournament. The entry deadline is February 15. The house address is 709 N. High St., Morgantown.

PROCEDURES FOR BETTER OPERATION

Arizona brothers are making a new effort to clear up a problem which plagues many chapters—unpaid house bills at the end of the school year. Starting in October, bills were distributed on the 25th of the month, and were overdue on the fifth of the following month.

The books are balanced by the chapter's professional fraternity accounting firm on the 20th of the month. If one or two checks for the last month still have not been submitted, they are automatically divided up and added onto the bills of all members. If, after these pro-rated bills are distributed, the owing brother pays his bill, the pro-rated members are given credit for the pro rata, and they will owe that much less on the following month's bill.

Because of the personal feeling of debt each deficient member will have knowing that his peers have shared the burden of his bill, a man who is a little lazy or slow about paying his bill will be more likely to pay promptly. Although no one likes pro rata, Arizona Sig Eps realize that this new accounting method will ultimately decrease the amount of unpaid bills and will also insure more money in the house treasury next September for the chapter's most important activity—rush.

At Ball State, Scholarship chairman Kent Howenstine has completed a new scholarship board. Individual grades are posted as to the ranking in the house. The men with the top grades are on top and the ones that didn't do so well are at the bottom. The board is prominently displayed outside of the officers' suite and it is quite an attention getter. It is expected to put some initiative into the lower ranking members.

Boston Sig Eps for the second year, have produced a University Calendar featuring photos of 12 university coeds and including all university activities, sports events, and rush dates. The calendar was sold by the brotherhood during orientation week to incoming freshmen. Sales are estimated at approximately 2,000 copies.

Bradley Sig Eps have initiated a Pledge Mother program to go along with the established Pledge Father program. Girls were chosen from pinmates and girls steadily dating men in the house. Each pledge was assigned a pledge mother to assist him in problems concerning dating and girl problems in general.

At Lenoir Rhyne, a 16 ft. tall Sig Ep Sam has been constructed, using plywood, for use at football games, rush, and all other events requiring publicity.

Muhlenberg Sig Eps, in addition to the present Alumni Newsletter published monthly, are also sending a newsletter to the parents of the brothers. We feel these people are often the least informed regarding the activities of the fraternity. To remedy the situation, the letter will brief the parents of the house's activities in areas such as sports, traditions, special activities, and coming events.

Serving to further integrate the brothers, parents, and alumni is our annual Alumni-Parent banquet, held the weekend after the pledge class

FAVORITE COUNSELOR

MARK O. BENNER, Indiana State, '64, Chapter Counselor at Maine, succeeds Roger B. Frey, a member of the Alumni Board.

While at Indiana State, Brother Benner served as president, and continued through '65, to work for his master's. He is an instructor of speech and broadcasting and manager of WMEB-FM, the campus radio. He is a member of the National Council special features committee for the Boy Scouts. Also, he is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, Phi Delta Kappa, National Association of Educational Broadcasters, and the Association for Professional Broadcasting Education.

The brotherhood at Maine is proud to have Mark O. Benner as counselor.

has been initiated. We try to include a speaker from the fraternity and emphasize the importance of the college fraternity in the total college experience. With this program we will try to regenerate alumni interest and educate the parents of the recent initiates in our goals and methods of achieving them. We have had great success with the banquet and have found it is an excellent way to unite the parents, alumni, and active brotherhood into a cooperative unit.

-DICK HARTMAN and LEE JOHNSON

North Carolina's pledge board set up a pledge study hall last year under the direction of pledge-trainer Noland W. Thuss. Five nights a week from 7:00 to 11:00 p.m. The pledge class studied in a classroom on campus. Every member of the class made his grades, helping the house stay above the all-men's average.

At Santa Barbara, Dean Lyle Reynolds attends chapter's Salute to Education.

At Washington U. (Mo.), the emphasis is on forming close interpersonal relationships between the chapter and the pledge class as early as possible in the pledging period. The chapter has also been impressed with the necessity of giving good example to the pledge class at all times in order to reinforce the content of the pledge education lectures. For the first time a pledge supplement will be published.

Also new is a Pledge Class Merit System in which the entire pledge class must act as a group to obtain merits which will be used to determine how soon after the end of the semester initiation will be held. Other measures are also being formulated to deal with the high mortality rate of capable pledges due to scholastic problems.

-H. WILSON

Rutgers Sig Eps each year conduct a spiritraising campaign among the new freshmen during the Freshman Week activities. A dummy wearing a freshman dink and tie is hung over the red door of the fraternity house, guarded by the brothers. When the freshmen demonstrate class unity by holding a spirit rally, they march to Sig Ep, battle up "Sig Ep Hill," retrieve the dummy, and promptly tear it to pieces to the cheers and spirited singing of their classmates.

Deans and student leaders at the university have lauded Sigma Phi Epsilon's success each year in instilling a unifying aspect of fun and enjoyment during a week of hectic activity and difficult adjustment for the new members of the Rutgers student body.

1966-67 SCHOLARSHIPS

The national Fraternity through the William L. Phillips Foundation, following the practice of recent years, has made available a number of scholarships to undergraduate members of chapters for 1966-67.

Eight scholarships were given—five regular Foundation scholarships of $350 each went to: Llewellyn G. Brown, North Carolina; Shelley Franklin Griffith, Tennessee Wesleyan; David Joel Harrer, Sacramento State; William Morgan House, Georgia; Wayne Lee Thomas, Florida.

One scholarship was given through the Virginia Delta Fund of the Foundation. The recipient is John Charles King, William and Mary.

Two Phillips Estate scholarships, in the amount of $350 each, were awarded to Charles Edward Moltz, III, Richmond; and Sandy Thomas Tucker, Richmond.

Lew G. Brown, North Carolina, junior majoring in political science, eventually plans to become an attorney. His grade average is 3.449 in a 4.0-A system and he stands 82nd in a class of 1973. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma.

Brown was pledge vice-president and is currently chapter secretary as well as alumni relations chairman. He plays volleyball and football in intramural competition and also runs in track. On campus, he is president of the Men's Residence Council and has served on the Residence Affairs Committee, the residence College Commission, and other such bodies.

Shelley F. Griffith, Tennessee Wesleyan, junior pre-med student, stands well scholastically with a 3.0 (4.0). He is a member of Delta Kappa.

Griffith was pledge vice-president, has served a term as president of the chapter, a post to which he has been re-elected. He has also held the jobs of rush chairman and pledge educator and has attended two leadership schools. His intramural sports are softball and basketball.

He has held the office of treasurer of his Freshman Class and president of his Sophomore Class. He was chairman of the 1966 May Day Committee and is a director of Circle K. He has also served as a counselor in the men's residence halls.

Wayne L. Thomas Florida

David J. Harrer, Sacramento State, senior who plans to be a social science teacher, has been a consistent Dean's List student and a versatile activities man, both on the campus and in the chapter. He has served as guard, librarian, correspondent to the JOURNAL, historian, and editor of the chapter's first rush brochure.

He was editor of the school yearbook, reporter on the campus newspaper, counselor for College Kickoff Orientation for freshmen, president of Alpha Phi Gamma, and a member of Blue Key. He has played intercollegiate water polo for three years and has also participated in varsity track.

William M. House, Georgia, senior pre-law student, ranks 27th in his class of 611 students. Consistently on the Dean's List, he topped the chapter in scholastic standing last year. He has been vice-president of the chapter and was elected president only to resign after he had been elected president of the Student Body.

House is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Blue Key, and Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha. He has been chapter scholarship chairman, parliamentarian, IFC representative, and attended the 1965 Conclave in New York.

Wayne L. Thomas, Florida, senior English major who intends to study law, has a cumulative average of 3.04 on a 4.0 system. In the chapter he has been scholarship chairman and assistant controller and at present is controller. He edited the chapter rush brochure for 1966 and has held a number of committee memberships.

He has held a number of positions in student government, including that of orientation group leader, secretary of organizations, and supervisor of the student government publicity bureau. Campus committees include IFC, Union Board, and Student Organizations and Social Affairs.

John C. King, William and Mary, is a junior history major heading for a career as teacher. He has earned very close to a 2. on a 3.0 system and ranks 31st in a class of 349. During the first semester of 1965 he made the Dean's List. He has served his chapter as secretary and currently serves it as vice-president. He is also former chairman of the public relations committee. His intramural sports include football, basketball, volleyball, horseshoes, swimming, handball, ping-pong, and free-throws.

He has played freshman baseball and is currently in varsity baseball.

Charles E. Moltz, III, Richmond, senior business administration major, has a 2.80 average (4.0-A). He has served the chapter as senior marshal and as a member of the rush and alumni relations committees. He has taken part in the intramural program in archery, rifle, and as a Greek Week participant.

Last year he was secretary of the Junior Class School of Business and this year is secretary of senate in the business school. He is also a member of the varsity rifle team. He is an assistant in the laboratory in the Department of Chemistry.

Sandy T. Tucker, Richmond, junior in English who plans a legal career, is an upper quartile scholar, who has served the chapter as co-rush chairman and now holds the vice-presidency and is IFC delegate. His intramural sports are football, basketball, soccer, badminton, horseshoes, and volleyball. His varsity sports: tennis and basketball.

On campus he is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Junior Class president, and treasurer of student government, now serving. A second scholarship winner at William and Mary is RONALD W. PHILLIPS. However the announcement and his photo were not received in time for this issue and will appear in February.

NEW CHAPTERS IN THE MAKING

At Chico State, new coordinating officers for the colony are: Richard D. Sathre, president; Thomas M. Bone, vice-president; Jim Bremer, controller; Howard Abrams, secretary; and Richard Johnson, recorder.

-Howard Abrams

The University of South Florida, which has grown to a 10,000 enrollment in the 10 years of its existence, welcomed national fraternities and sororities to its campus in September. It is situated at Tampa.

Through the efforts of George Kaludis, former dean of fraternities at his alma mater, the University of Maryland, and Ray King, a member of the University staff, a local group known as Verdandi is being helped to prepare to become Florida Eta Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The colony at Oshkosh was installed at the beginning of June, 1966, by John Robson, editor of the JOURNAL. We have 21 men, but plan to double our numbers when the fall rush begins. Pledge training will be guided by Charles G. Eberly, colony adviser, who has been a tremendous help in getting us on our feet. In addition to the concentration upon getting a select group of pledges, we are looking into housing.

We appreciate the help we have received from our Alumni Board, from Bill Drake, NHQ staff representative, from District Governor John Hartman, and from the Sig Ep chapters throughout Wisconsin. In our first semester in existence, we topped all other fraternities in G.P.A.

The colony has 21 members: Gary Gresholdt, president; Larry Sobolik, vice-president; Gerry Hackbarth, controller; Roland Hebeler, recorder; and Jim White, secretary. Other members are: Doug Kubic, Ron Dunbar, Harold Bertrand, Chuck Greenwood, Bob Neuman, Lee Mancuso, Dale Kretz, Barry Stangel, Dick Tollefsen, Jeff Ware, Dan Torrison, Bob Lange, Stan Mathes, and Tim Garvey.

Gresholdt has been selected to participate in a teaching internship—a new venture in education on this campus. Only seven students from the entire Junior Class qualified. Gary is also secretary of the IFC.

Out of 21 members, 19 have campus activities. A few—Jeff Ware, Gerald Hackbarth, and Robert Neuman—received scholarships; others were on the Honor Roll and Dean's List; several are on athletic teams; a handful are in the choir and band; and the rest serve in numerous other capacities.

The Colony claims seven Resident Assistants. A resident assistant is subordinate to a Head Resident, but exercises much control in the operation of dormitories. It is a much sought-after position. In the Interfraternity Council's rush folder, the colony has a statement: "Only top-flight men can build a top-flight fraternity." In order to be worthy of membership in Sigma Phi Epsilon, that statement must be obeyed.

Dan Torrison and Chuck Greenwood both play defense for the Oshkosh State Titan's football team. Torrison, a junior, has lettered two years in football.

Stan Mathes is a junior who has lettered twice in track. Last spring he set the school record for the 880-yard run and took a first in the conference meet in the same event.

RED DOOR NOTES

Atlantic Christian Sig Eps painted their chapter room and upstairs and downstairs halls. A new red carpet was ordered for the chapter room and stairs. Greek letters, a gift from the Alumni Board, and a Sig Ep door knocker, given by Chapter Counselor Edward L. Cloyd, Jr. adorn the red doors.

At Boston rebuilding of the rear stairwells and renovation of the fifth floor lavatory are proceeding. Other plans include the remodeling of the room adjoining the kitchen into a small lunch area for meals during off hours.

Bradley Sig Eps have completed a patio.

Colorado Mines chapter invested approximately 350 manhours in house improvements in preparation for fall rush. The house was completely cleaned and the living quarters and bathrooms were painted.

Colorado State U. moms and dads supplied funds and materials for the paneling and new curtains for the dining area.

Connecticut Sig Eps have paneled the lounge, bought a new television, and landscaped the grounds.

Cornell Sig Eps chose Alumni Weekend to stage the grand opening of the new house at 109 McGraw Place, Ithaca. October 22 not only witnessed the opening of the new $400,000 home which will accommodate 44 members (57 per cent more than the old house at 112 Edgemore), but it was the day of the big game with Yale.

The undergraduates put finishing touches on the new house for the grand opening. The rooms were painted, furniture assembled, rugs laid, and the grounds landscaped.

At the Florida house, the walls were paneled, the floor retiled, and the ceiling lowered. The entire house was painted, inside and out, and a rug and couch were bought for the housemother's apartment.

At Iowa, the present house will be remodeled and an addition constructed resulting in an overall capacity of 68 men. The annex will be torn down and the property used for parking space.

Missouri-Rolla men prepare new living quarters.

The Kentucky chapter celebrated its 17th year in the house at 509 East Main Street, Lexington. Located in Bell Court, one of the most desirable neighborhoods in Lexington, the house was once considered the most lavish in the city. The four-story structure contains 24 rooms, seven bathrooms, 5 basement rooms, and a carriage house. It can house 40 members. The rooms are finished in mahogany woodwork with hardwood floors.

Recent improvements include the rebuilding of the front porch portico, a new roof, repainting of many rooms, new electrical wiring, a new color television, and a new grand piano.

Current relations with the neighbors are at a high level also. Recently when the house was put up for the Most Improved House Award conducted by the Bell Court Neighborhood Association, it made it to the finals.

Lenoir Rhyne Sig Eps have put new couches and a juke box in the Alumni House.

At Michigan State, the alumni recently installed a new gas heating system.

Missouri Sig Eps installed a new wall-to-wall gold carpet for the first floor and repainted the house interior. This action was part of a planned renovation begun two years ago with a $38,000 appropriation.

Missouri at Rolla Sig Eps renovated the old housing annex into modern study rooms.

North Carolina Sig Eps began the new year with their annual work week. Besides the regular clean up, brick benches covered with black leather were added to the basement social room. A new rug for the living room and TV room are planned. Last spring's pledge class project was the cementing of half of the back yard to form a party patio.

At Ohio State, the Alumni Board fund-raising

New San Jose State house, 234 S. 11th Street.

committee, headed by Harry Kurtz, past Grand President, has plans for a $300,000 English Tudor home.

The Oregon State chapter house, the entire living room, den, and dining room were painted.

At Rensselaer during the summer the new Paine House was completely renovated and made suitable for fraternity living.

Rhode Island Sig Eps were required to give up their University-owned living quarters but before year's end expect to occupy a unit of the new housing complex now under construction.

Rutgers Sig Eps recently completed remodeling and repaneling the rec room, acquired a new piano, and rebuilt the trophy case. The room was dedicated to the memory of David Dunlap, District Governor until his death, and a great friend of New Jersey Beta.

Renovation proceeds at Stevens Tech.

San Jose State Sig Eps have moved into their new home at 234 South 11th Street, San Jose. It is across the street from the old house and accommodates 42 men and the housemother.

Santa Barbara Sig Eps planted ivy all around their new house, adding a distinctive appearance to the red brick structure. In the spring, a time capsule was buried near the house, to be dug up in the year 2000!

Southeast Missouri Sig Ep pledges for their project of the year presented the chapter with Greek letters for the side of the house. The letters are three feet high and of black plexiglass.

Stevens Sig Eps poured a new sidewalk, rebuilt the stairs, and put down a new floor in the Middle Room and the Alumni Room. They also repainted the first floor and papered and painted the housemother's apartment. New furniture was acquired.

At Tennessee, the new $302,000 chapter house in UT's Fraternity Park will be completed before January. The house will sleep 40 men and feature an apartment for the housemother, a parlor, library, chapter room, party room, and split-level living room. Dining facilities for approximately 100 men will also be provided.

Fraternity Park is a $3,000,000 project begun last spring by 13 fraternities and the UT administration.

Tennessee Wesleyan brothers have built a rustic fence around the fraternity property. Such log fences are commonly found around older homes in East Tennessee and add a certain distinction and quaintness to the houses they surround. Other improvements include a fresh coat of paint, inside and out, shower stalls for the six brothers now living in the house, and a completely resown lawn.

Indiana State Sig Eps took first in intramurals for the fraternity division for the second straight year. They won the all-campus trophy for intramurals.

They also won Songfest with "I Ain't Down Yet" from the movie Unsinkable Molly Brown. Don Dudine directed.

At Iowa, Hugh Mossman, junior, is IFC representative, treasurer of Central Party Committee, cheerleader, and chairman of Foreign Students Weekend.

Kentucky Sig Eps came in third in the All-Campus Sing last spring. In the mixed chorus with Delta Zeta they sang "I Love Paris," and "Sanctus." Charles Neal was the director.

Kentucky Alpha was host to the District 7 Leadership School in April. Seven chapters were represented. Robert Rainey, '64, conducted pledge education with Kentucky pledge educator Jack Palm. Richard Gabheart acted as president; Eric Sallee, vice-president, and Terry Ginn, rush chairman for Kentucky during the conference. Richard Panther is district governor.

The spring pledges gave the chapter a new mascot, Spe, a German Shepherd. Since his arrival, Spe has accompanied the fraternity on all functions, including pep rallies and parties.

John Palm, John Konz, Charles Neal, and Charles Rees led the Sig Ep intramural bowling team to its first championship in many years.

TRADITIONS AND PARTIES

Auburn Sig Eps inaugurated their first annual honors banquet, in which the alumni participated and at which Ben T. Hagler, '39, spoke on Striving for Excellence. Auburn's adviser to fraternities, Garth Jenkins, was present.

Chapter Counselor G. J. Cottier, '29, presented awards as follows: Steve Turley, Best Brother; Curtis Mauldin, Best Pledge; Larry Cook, Best Athlete; Rust Hogsette, Scott award; Jack Walls, Dubach award; Larry Ennis, Best Scholar; and Ed Sabatini, Best Freshman Scholar.

Sig Eps at the Queen of Hearts ball on February 11 selected Sandra Scott, Alpha Delta Pi, as their new Queen.

At Ball State, Sue Watson, Alpha Omicron Pi, was chosen as sweetheart at the annual Closed Dance.

Belmont Abbey Sig Eps held their first annual Sweetheart Ball on April 22, 1966, when Mary Jean Nabb was crowned queen.

Bradley Sig Eps serenaded the sororities to wish them good luck in rush. Songs included ranged from "Sig Ep Sam" to "Yellow Submarine" (a recent hit by the Beatles) The sororities enjoyed the well wishers; the Chi Omegas gave the Sig Eps a trophy that consisted of a miniature submarine painted yellow mounted on a wooden base.

At Cleveland State, Homecoming float, "the Jolly Green Giant," will be 13 feet long, 9 feet high, and 7 feet long.

Connecticut Sig Eps have won the annual Greek Sing for the sixth time. John Kirmayer directed them in singing "Pater Noster" and "Cindy" to obtain their ninth trophy in 11 years.

Davidson Sig Eps honored chapter counselor Capt. Donald M. Campbell, Davidson, '57, at a combination Seniors and Alumni banquet. Campbell is leaving for active duty in East Asia. Other honorees were alumni board members, and John Lehigh Queen Janet Brown (now Mrs. Wally Johnson) and her two beautiful attendants.

F. McInnis, Davidson, '30, and District Governor Bedford W. Black.

Davis and Elkins Sig Eps chose Beth Yettergren, pinmate of Jack Wiley, III, as Queen at the annual Sweetheart Weekend.

Georgia Tech Sig Eps have chosen Mrs. Barbara Stephens as their new chapter sweetheart.

Idaho State Sig Eps at their annual dinnerdance at Idaho Falls, selected Sharon Vorhees as Sweetheart for the coming year.

Indiana State Sig Eps named Susie McCarthy, Alpha Omicron Pi, their Sweetheart at the annual Sig Ep Spring Formal at the Phoenix Country Club.

During the spring pledge banquet Jack Hasenmyer was named outstanding senior; Ray Carroll, outstanding nonexecutive board senior: Brooke Hardy, outstanding active; and James Beehler outstanding pledge. Tom Bozell had the highest grade increase and Jerry Blemker had the highest over-all grade average.

Kansas Sig Eps chose for their chapter sweetheart Nancy Hover, Alpha Phi.

At Kentucky, at the spring formal, Tom Damron, Fort Thomas, won the Most Active Active award (known as the F. Raymond Hickerson Award), while Don Hukle, Lexington, won the Most Outstanding Pledge trophy.

The Sig Eps held a party on September 16, as the final major rush function for the fall term. Entertainment was provided by the New Lime. Among the decorations were printed invitations, noise makers, a New Year's countdown, and suggestions for New Year's resolutions.

Michigan State and University of Toledo Sig Eps got together for a house party at the Sig Ep house in Toledo.

Missouri at Rolla Sig Eps chose Sharon Bullman Greek Week Queen. The underclassmen defeated the juniors and seniors in the annual soccer game. Sig Eps staged their annual float trip and barbecue.

Muhlenberg Sig Eps held a reception for freshmen women, the purpose of which being the establishment of good relations between the fraternity and the various womens' dormitories.

North Carolina brothers chose Robbie Adair Barr from Charlotte, N. C., pinmate of chapter president E. L. Kale, as chapter sweetheart. She attends the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Ohio State Sig Eps at their annual Spring Formal on May 20 at the Christopher Inn chose as their new Sweetheart, Connie Blnchard, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Athletic Chairman Mike Mundorf presented the Outstanding Athlete Award to Dave Hay, and Geoff Hill, activities chairman, presented the Outstanding Activities Man Plaque to Keith Kistler. Larry Rima was honored as the Outstanding Pledge. Ceremonies were concluded with the presentation of the traditional gavel to past President Keith Kistler by new President Tom McLaughlin.

Oklahoma Sig Eps selected as their Girl of the Golden Heart, Jill Sellers, Alpha Delta Pi.

At Rutgers, the highlights of the football season is the opening game against Princeton. This annual contest dates back to the first intercollegiate football game in 1869, in which Rutgers defeated Princeton six goals to two goals. Sig Eps now have the annual tradition of a pre-game picnic. All brothers dress in traditional red vests and blazers, attend the picnic, then cheer on the Scarlet at the stadium. The festivities of the day end with a party at the house that night, in which some lucky girl receives her Sig Ep pin to the accompaniment of the brotherhood's rendition of "Sig Ep Sweetheart."

San Jose State Sig Eps chose Linda Luscher, Kappa Kappa Gamma, as their Queen of Hearts.

Santa Barbara brothers teamed up with Pi Beta Phi to win the annual Spring Sing with a medley of songs from Oliver! The Sig Eps were runners-up for the all-sports trophy, winning allschool football. They won the Galloping Gaucho Review, and all-school talent show, with a skit entitled, "Hoo-Hah in the Courtroom."

In the spring, Santa Barbara Sig Eps hosted the second annual Salute to Education, at which outstanding members of the faculty were honored with a plaque and a dinner in their honor.

Stevens Sig Eps at their graduation day luncheon on June 11 presented their housemother, Mrs. Rettig, with a birdbath for her garden.

Valdosta State Sig Eps picked Jo Hodges, Kappa Delta, as their new Sweetheart.

Western Michigan Sig Eps took the Grand Trophy in Freshman Carnival with a semi-tent under which a simple dart shoot was arranged. Pretty pinmates and brothers dressed as clowns kept the Sig Ep booth the busiest of all, and caught the eye of the judges.

William and Mary Sig Eps are raising money for their scholarship fund through the sale of activities calendars.

DEVOTION UPON EMERGENT OCCASIONS

■ On April 1, Illinois Sig Eps and their chapter house were seen on the NBC television special, "Vietnam: The Home Front." This recognition and appearance on nation-wide television meant a lot to the men, reports chapter president Dick Cantzler.

The NBC-TV special dealt with the reactions of the public and the national economy to the war in Vietnam. Illinois Alpha of Sigma Phi Epsilon was chosen to represent a typical fraternity and how the draft affects students.

They were selected for this role largely through the efforts of two fine Army ROTC officers: Col. Harold Dorsett and Maj. Bruce Mort. Colonel Dorsett, an alumnus of D.C. Alpha, is head of the Alumni Board and is making a substantial effort to motivate both the undergraduates and the alumni.

These two men were able to steer an NBC camera crew through the Red Door. For several hours on March 9, the camera taped a discussion of the draft by Major Mort and some 15 Sig Eps.

- Toledo Sig Eps on Tuesday noon, March 29, as a 72-hour publicity stunt to promote the chapter's Queen of Hearts dance started to teeter up and totter down and by midnight, Monday, April 11, had set a new world's record of 324 hours of continuous teeter-tottering.
- James Reston in a recent New York Times column took note of a recent release of the U.S. Senate Republican Policy Committee headed by Sigma Phi Epsilon's Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa.

The report stated that the political future in America lay with the candidates who kept in touch with the young.

The report noted that in the next 20 years, the people in America over 65 would increase by about 7 million; those between 35 and 65 by less than 11 million; but those between 20 and 34 by 25 million and those under 20 by 35 million.

"The center of our political stage," the report quoted Peter Drucker, the historian and economist, as saying, "is now being taken over by a new power group—a professional, technical, and managerial class; very young, affluent, used to great job security, and highly educated. It will soon replace the old power centers—labor, the farm bloc, and Big Business, in the old-fashioned sense of that term.

"Around this new power center, tomorrow's majority and tomorrow's consensus about the new issues will have to be built."

■ The Cosmos Club, one of the finest clubs at the nation's capital which includes many leading scientists among its members, has an interesting unofficial motto. Taken from the words of St. Benedict, it may conceivably be adapted for use in some of the nation's chapter houses:

"If any pilgrim monk come from distant parts if with wish as a guest to dwell in the monastery. and will be content with the customs which he finds in the place, and do not perchance by his lavishness disturb the monastery, but is simply content with what he finds, he shall be received for as long a time as he desires. If, indeed, he find fault with anything, or expose it, reasonably, and with the humility of charity, the Abbot shall discuss it prudently, lest perchance God had sent him for this very thing. But, if he have been found gossipy and contumacious in the time of his sojourn as guest, not only ought he not to be joined to the body of the monastery, but also it shall be said to him, honestly, that he must depart. If he does not go, let two stout monks, in the name of God, explain the matter to him."

NBC makes a TV special at Illinois chapter.

Michigan's Gregory Hykes 1000th pledge

■ The first step in the art of brotherhood is to be a brother; then making brothers takes care of itself. To be a brother a man should start by being a brother to himself, by being true to his highest and best and by aligning himself with the enduring values of human life that make for growth and progress.

This is what Wilferd A. Peterson writes about the art of friendship in his book, The Art of Living. The above paragraph is a paraphrase of Mr. Peterson's lesson to demonstrate that when the word brotherhood is substituted for friendship, an excellent precept for Sig Eps results.

■ Residence hall assistantships are available at Ohio University to persons in all academic areas as well as those interested in pursuing careers in student personnel, guidance and counseling, community service, human relations, education, psychology, and administration. The stipend is $2,200 the first year and $2,400 the second year, plus waiver of registration fees. For additional information contact: Mrs. Rebecca Yoxtheimer, Assistant Director of Student Residence, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

Gregory T. Hykes became Michigan's 1,000th pledge at a special initiation ceremony on September 10. Several alumni were present for the ceremony and a celebration banquet.

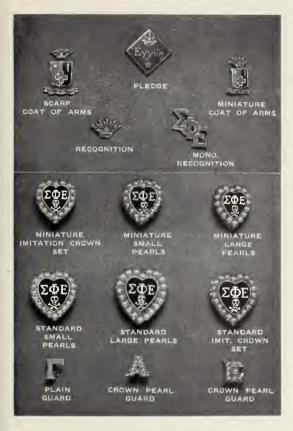

Greg graduated in the class of 1965 from Grosse Pointe High School. He received both the Citizenship Award and Actor of the Year Award for 1965. He was also president of the Junior Class and president of Key Club, as well as being in the band, orchestra, and being the commencement speaker.

At Michigan he is active in intramurals and Sig Ep activities. He was president of his pledge class and is now chairman of Homecoming.

Georgia Tech received the Silver Service award for contributing unanimously to the Sig Ep camp fund for ten consecutive years.
